

Korth Denies TFX Will be Inferior, Costlier Warplane

Navy Secretary's Testimony in Conflict With Service Witnesses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth gave Senate investigators a stiff-necked denial today that the Pentagon has settled for the inferior, costlier version of the TFX war-plane.

His testimony before the Senate investigations subcommittee was in direct conflict with that given previously by witnesses for the uniformed Air Force and Navy. The plane is intended for use by both services.

The subcommittee is seeking to establish whether favoritism figured in award of the potentially huge contract to the General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex., over the rival bid of the Boeing Co. of Seattle.

Military evaluation groups had rated the Boeing design as promising the cheaper, better plane, a finding which Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara rejected in making the award.

Democratic State

General Dynamics plans to do much of the work in normally Democratic Texas and borderlines New York. Boeing had planned to do most of the job at its Wichita plant in traditionally Republican Kansas.

Refusing to back up an inch, Korth insisted that General Dynamics had won the contract on merit with a design promising to be faster, more maneuverable and vastly superior to Boeing's for two prime combat missions for the Navy — air defense and beachhead support.

A summary of his prepared statement was made available to newsmen at their request. The hearing is being held behind closed doors, with a censored transcript of the question-and-answer testimony of the articulate Korth to be made public later.

Korth told the subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., that a new analysis of the rival designs since the contract award has confirmed McNamara's judgment in awarding the contract to General Dynamics.

Proxmire Assails Kennedy Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said in a Senate speech Thursday he was opposed to President Kennedy's tax cut proposals because the 1960 Democratic platform promised a balanced budget and it could not be balanced if taxes were reduced.

Proxmire said that the nation will have an $8 billion deficit this year and expects to increase spending by more than $4 billion next year.

"We can not have a balanced budget if we reduce taxes," he said.

Dirksen Replies, 'Ha Ha' to Plan to Cut Senate Talk-Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—There's a move afoot to stop all the talk, talk in the Senate.

The chance of success? "Ha, Ha, Ha," hoots Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen, a man of many glib words. "And I might add, Ha, Ha, Ha."

The senator understands the situation. The problem is that there's no rule requiring senators to stick to the point during debate.

Because the subject of the day is foreign aid, for instance, doesn't bar a Senator from chiming in with a harangue on the price of peaches. The other day, Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., had to wait two hours to get in a word for the

Goldwater Hits 'Corrupt Big City Machines'

Young Republicans Give GOP Senator Roaring Ovation

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Democratic party leaders are linked in a "cynical alliance" with "corrupt big city machines," Sen. Barry Goldwater has told warring Young Republicans at their national convention.

The Arizona conservative's speech to a cheering crowd of 3,000 Thursday night came after a day of bitter wrangling. More was in store today, the last day, when national officers and resolutions were to be decided.

Goldwater, obviously the favorite of the majority at the convention for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination, got a rousing ovation—complete with trim young girls clad in Goldwater sweat shirts.

Raps Liberals

Goldwater again insisted that he isn't running for anything except the U.S. Senate. Most of his talk was devoted to castigating modern liberals, whom he called "soft-shelled creatures."

These, he said, "are the reactionaries. They haven't had a new idea in 30 years."

Republicans, he said to applause, must bring the liberals "kicking and screaming into the 1960's."

Praising the liberals of 50 years ago, Goldwater contended "The politicians who have inherited the traditions of liberalism . . . are not liberals at all, but merely ambitious men who have become the captives of the big city machines."

He cited Chicago, Philadelphia and New York.

He said the narrowness of "the modern liberal view has been that all problems are . . . essentially economic in character. This is the Marxist view and it has had a deep effect on the modern liberals in this country."

Trip Under Fire

President Kennedy's European trip also came under fire. Referring to the Ireland stop, Goldwater said, "I don't know what troubles they have . . . but we have a hell of a lot here and he ought to be here taking care of them."

Goldwater called Cuba " . . . in all probability a greater and more dangerous defeat than any we have suffered in any war. How many more defeats can we take? How much longer dare we keep a weak and indecisive national leadership?" he asked.

'Compromise' Tax Plan Teetering Near Failure

BY HARVEY BREUSCHER

MADISON (AP) — A compromise proposal to break Wisconsin's political deadlock on a new state budget and balance taxes was dangerously close today to being worth less than the paper it was printed on.

State Senate votes on two revenue-cutting amendments were the points on which the measure teetered. And only an overnight change of heart could keep one of the amendments from being solidly attached to the bill.

The political point of no return was reached on the budget-tax measure Thursday when the GOP-controlled Senate voted 19-14 to take $9 million from the proposal's new revenue section and pay it out as property tax relief to public utilities.

Chances Dim

Democratic minority and Republicans instrumental in reaching the compromise with Gov. John W. Reynolds were quick to forecast that the shift in funds could kill chances of enactment. Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, whose battle for the compromise has been lauded by minority members of the house, appealed for reconsideration and an overnight delay in the vote.

"Search your souls and come back tomorrow morning and maybe we can still save this thing," Hollander pleaded.

The appeal was heard, and the motion carried, 18-13.

Hollander's words were prompted by what Sen. Lynn Staibbaum, D-Racine, called "a real danger" that the compromise would die because of the $9 million shift.

Court Will Take Reynolds' Case on Reapportionment

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Supreme Court consented today to take original jurisdiction in Gov. John W. Reynolds' suit to reapportion state legislative districts by court order.

The court said it would consider the case in September, but made it clear that granting Reynolds leave to institute an action "does not impair the power of the Legislature to enact a constitutional reapportionment act."

The governor has until Aug. 5 to provide the court with a proposed redistricting plan and additional population and district information.

The defendant secretary of state has until Sept. 9 to respond to the governor's brief. The court said it will then set a time for the filing of any briefs for oral argument or other proceeding.

Reynolds said he was "most gratified" by the court's action. "This makes it clear that we are going to have constitutional reapportionment," the governor added.

"We're reaching a point where this has just about become a Republican tax bill," said Staibbaum. "Pass this benefit for utilities and a cut in the bank tax and you can find your votes for passage of the bill among Republicans because Democrats won't vote for it."

Bank Tax Cut

The bank tax cut to which Staibbaum referred is pending in another amendment. It would hold a franchise levy on banks and savings and loan institutions at about $1.5 million in the biennium instead of $2.7 million as originally proposed.

Final passage of the $9 mil

Irish Solons Cheer Kennedy

Parliament Hears U. S. President Praise Ireland

DUBLIN (AP)—To great applause and cheers, President Kennedy told members of the Irish Parliament today they represent a free country—and that is why he feels at home in Ireland.

The Dail, formed out of centuries of struggle, opened its doors—and its heart—to the U.S. President who is the great-grandson of an Irish emigrant.

Kennedy came here after a second barnstorming tour around the Irish countryside during which he received the freedom of Cork and another mighty welcome from Irishmen.

A roar of applause and cheering burst out as the President strode into the Dail chamber to address a joint session.

Unique Occasion

Dail Speaker Patrick Hogan declared: "It is an occasion unique as an event in Irish history—it is an international gesture of kindness and goodwill."

Kennedy told the Dail that the free Ireland of today has a future "as promising as your past is proud" in the role of "a maker and shaper of world peace."

He said he feels "at home" in Ireland—"no longer a country of persecution, political or religious."

"It is a free country and that, too, is why I feel at home."

Kennedy called on other nations to imitate the way the Irish won their independence.

"New nations can build with their former governing powers the same kind of fruitful relationship that Ireland has established with Great Britain," the President said "a relationship founded on equality and mutual interests."

'Heroic Deeds'

He told his audience that "the heroic deeds," the most enduring literature have emerged from the small nations of the world.

"Ireland has already set a stan-

Khrushchev, Red Leaders In E. Berlin

Meeting Described As a 'Surprise Summit Conference'

BERLIN (AP)—Premier Khrushchev arrived today in East Berlin for a surprise summit meeting with leaders of Soviet bloc nations.

Khrushchev was accompanied by his wife, Nina, but reports from Moscow made no mention of Soviet spaceman Valentina Tereshkova. Rumors have been persistent that he would bring her along in an effort to whip up something like the public enthusiasm that greeted President Kennedy in West Berlin.

Following Khrushchev into Berlin were Polish party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka and Czechoslovak President Antonin Novotny.

Other satellite leaders are expected to assemble in East Berlin by Sunday, the 70th birthday of East German Communist party boss Walter Ulbricht.

Official Pretext

Ulbricht's birthday is the official pretext for the gathering. But it is the first time Khrushchev has left home to attend a birthday party for a satellite leader, and Western officials in Berlin are convinced there is much more to the trip than that.

The announcement that Gomulka and Novotny also were coming produced a revision of earlier Western speculation that Khrushchev's visit was mainly a propaganda move intended to blunt the impact of President Kennedy's jubilant reception in West Berlin two days ago.

The Soviet and Chinese Communist parties open talks in Moscow July 5 on their bitter dispute over the policy the Communist countries should pursue in their relations with the rest of the world. Red Chinese leaders have marshaled public support for their

Nixon Received In Audience by Pope Paul VI

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Richard M. Nixon was received in audience today by Pope Paul VI. The former vice president described the Pope as a "man of vigor and vitality who looks 10 years younger than his actual age of 65."

Nixon and the Pope talked in the pontiff's private library for more than 15 minutes. Nixon was accompanied by Archbishop Martin J. O'Connor, formerly of Scranton, Pa., and now rector of the North American Pontifical College.

After the private audience, the Pope also received Mrs. Nixon and the Nixon's daughters, Patricia, 17, and Julie, 14.

The Nixons arrived Thursday from Athens on a private visit. They will remain here through July 3, and then visit Florence and Venice.

Negro Rally Brings Promises in Beloit

Rev. A. D. King Leads Small But Persistent Protest Crowd

BELOIT (AP) — Negroes, supported by a handful of whites and a Southern integrationist leader, staged a faltering but persistent rally Thursday and won promised consideration for their complaints of discrimination in housing and employment.

"The city council will give serious consideration to the petition received tonight," Council President Robert E. Tilley told a crowd of about 200 gathered at the city hall steps Thursday night. "We feel we represent all of the people of Beloit."

A brief address by the Rev. A. D. King, Birmingham, Ala., integration leader and brother of Dr. Martin Luther King, and a prayer brought the demonstration to a close.

The evening call at the city hall had not been planned, but began at a church where a mass meeting had been scheduled after leaders of the demonstration had failed to reach desired city officials during a morning rally.

A crowd of about 150 Negroes and a half dozen whites marched nearly a mile from the Zion Baptist Church to the city hall, where six of the seven councilmen were assembled for a session of another city agency.

Leaders were permitted to present their requests to the council members. When the meeting ended 45 minutes later, all six of the councilmen went outside to meet with the waiting crowd. Only Tilley spoke, but all the councilmen stayed to hear Rev. King's address.

King had obviously been disappointed when only 50 Negroes and a handful of whites appeared in a park adjoining the municipal building for the morning rally. He told the sign-carrying demonstrators Beloit was the first community where he found "Negroes afraid for their jobs to attend."

Woman's Fears Realized

'Woe to Germany if This Man Ever Gains Power' — Walter Ulbricht Did

BY JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP)—"Look into his eyes and you will see how scheming and dishonest he is. Woe to Germany if this man gains power."

Germany's famous woman Communist, the late Klara Zetkin, was talking about Walter Ulbricht when she made the statement in the 1920s.

Ulbricht had just completed his first hatchet job for Stalin. Germany's Communist party had become too big and independent. Ulbricht chopped it into cells which Moscow could control easily and so earned the name "Comrade Cell."

Since those turbulent days, Ulbricht has done many hatchet jobs and survived numerous purges and upheavals.

Exile in Russia

He was in exile in the Soviet Union during the Nazi era. Stalin sent him back to Germany in 1945 in the uniform of a Soviet army colonel.

Since then, the spade-bearded former cabaretmaker has risen to become the boss of the East German Communist party and the dictator of East Germany.

Sunday, Ulbricht celebrates his 70th birthday and Khrushchev will be in East Berlin for the event. At least the Communists say that is the purpose of Khrushchev's visit.

It is no secret in the West that Khrushchev is more than unhappy with Ulbricht, who rules 17 million Germans with the terror tactics of Stalin.

Soviet diplomats, in unguarded moments, condemn Ulbricht for failure to turn East Germany into a valuable satellite.

Many Failures

Since 1953, when the East Germans revolted unsuccessfully and surged through the country crying "death to the spade beard," the Ulbricht regime has registered nothing but failures. Heavy industry was built rapidly but production never reached government goals. Collectivized farms have failed to provide enough food to do away with rationing.

Khrushchev may fear that grumbling among East Germans could become something more serious because of President Ken-

Strawberry Field Day Set for Sturgeon Bay

RUSSELL L. LUCKOW
Outagamie County Farm Management Agent

Strawberry growers in Outagamie County and surrounding areas are reminded to attend the Strawberry Field Day, July 1, at the Sturgeon Bay Experiment Station. The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. Commercial growers as well as the back yard gardener will have an opportunity to evaluate strawberry seedlings and selections as well as over 15 other named varieties.

The Sturgeon Bay Experiment Station farm is located three miles north of Sturgeon Bay on Highway 42.

While we are talking about strawberry production, I would like to mention four insects that have been causing problems to strawberry growers.

First: Cyclamen Mite — The mite, "What is wrong with the symptoms here are plants are coin leaves that have white spots knarled and stunted berries are on them." Actually this is not a dried up and seedy. For the home disease of any kind but it what gardener it is probably more economic we call sun scald, which is due to removal to remove and destroy the weather conditions that we the infested plants in commercial have had this past spring and plantings, one can use two biondan early summer. The plant usually four days to harvest or Keltthane grows out of this condition. We might add that this is quite common this year on corn, snap beans and cucumbers throughout the whole state of Wisconsin.

The second question being asked most frequently this week is, "What will control Millipedes?" Apply a 5 per cent DDT dust or spray to the hiding places or areas most frequented by the Millipedes. If one can eliminate the hiding places you can usually eliminate them from being a very pesty insect.

Fewer Eggs Produced in Wisconsin

Prices Remain Low, Feed Costs Rise In State, Nation

Farm flocks in both the state and nation are producing fewer eggs than a year ago, according to the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, but egg prices continue at the low level of a year ago.

Wisconsin farm flocks produced 8 per cent fewer eggs in May than a year ago. This decrease in production results from a drop of 9 per cent in the number of layers. Production per layer averaged the highest on record for May and was 1 per cent above a year ago.

Feed Costs

Total egg production on Wisconsin farms in the first five months of this year was 9 per cent below the same 1962 period compared with a loss of 1 per cent for the nation. With about the same number of layers as a year ago, egg production for the nation in May showed no change.

Low egg prices and higher feed costs have discouraged further increases in farm flocks for both the state and nation. Commercial hatchery output of egg-type chicks in Wisconsin for the first five months of this year was off 2 per cent from the January through May total last year. Hatchery output of egg-type chicks in the nation is off 2 per cent from a year ago.

Prices received for eggs sold by Wisconsin farmers in May averaged 26 cents a dozen or the same as May last year. These prices are the lowest for May since 1941.

Young Aerialist Rivals Famed Lillian Leitzel

Star Appearing With Ringling Circus
July 4 Weekend in Milwaukee Arena

There's a new star in the galaxy of the world's greatest circus performers. She is La Toria, 18-year-old aerialist whose act is reminiscent of the one that made the great Lillian Leitzel famous. La Toria will make her first Wisconsin appearance at the Milwaukee Arena when the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus plays there July 3 through July 7 under the auspices of the Tripoli Shrine.

The young woman in real life is Vicki Unus, daughter of the late Great Unus, the famous circus performer who balances on a sphere with his index finger. Unus now is appearing with the American circus in Moscow.

La Toria is making her first circus tour this season and her career began in a starring role at a $25,000 a year salary. Ringling scouts discovered in her a performer who could bring back to the circus some of the glories of the Ringling circus, and is her famous Leitzel.

Old-time circus fans will remember the petite Leitzel, who thrilled audiences season after season with her whirling body, to be swings high up in the Ringling circus. The aerialist fell to her death when her equipment broke member of all the former great while performing in Europe.

La Toria is just one of the many stars who will be in the Milwaukee parade. They will form in essence a historical pageant of American circus history, dipping back into the last century and early 1900s for the origins of many of the colorful circus wagons.

Ringling Circus performers, animals and wagons also will be in the parade. For this circus, the parade will be a homecoming, since Ringling's originated in Baraboo and its winter quarters site for many years is now the location of the Circus World Museum. The street parade also marks the first since 1920 for the Ringling Circus.

Because of its parade participation, Ringling's will not hold a matinee at the Arena July 4. There will be two shows a day, July 3, 5, 6 and 7 and an evening show on July 4.

Listeners Rate 'Man Who Wasn't There'

NEW YORK (AP)—In the continuing simmering stew about the accuracy of audience ratings in television, much has been made of sampling methods used, faked interviews and such. But not too much attention has been paid to the validity of the answers by the public to questions.

One rating service recently slipped the name of one of its vice presidents into a list of television personalities. Fourteen per cent of the people questioned said they knew him. Two per cent said they liked him very much; another two per cent knocked him.

Sensational New Queen of circus aerialists is La Toria, 18, shown executing body swings more than 50 feet up in the air in the manner of the famous late Lillian Leitzel. La Toria is one of the featured performers of Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus appearing at the Milwaukee Arena July 3 through July 7 under the auspices of Tripoli Shrine. Shows are scheduled twice daily except for July 4 matinee when the circus cast and animals will be in the big World Circus Museum parade in Milwaukee.

'The Longest Day' Motion Picture Tribute To Those in Invasion

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

June 6, 1944 — "The Longest Day" — is a day "that people will remember and talk about long after we are dead and gone."

So said one of the officers of a U.S. Navy vessel carrying troops to the beaches of Normandy on that morning during the fifth year of the World War II.

Now that incident and other incidents of that important invasion are recreated with historical accuracy and realism in the 20th Century-Fox motion picture production based on Cornelius Ryan's book, "The Longest Day."

The film, which stars 42 motion picture actors from this country and Europe, currently is playing at the Appleton Theater.

It is a motion picture very unlike the usual war movie. It is realistic even to the point where Germans speak in German and Frenchmen in French; subtitles provide translations.

The film, just as the book on which it was based, is objective. It takes no sides, gives no reasons for war, offers no explanations for why men acted as they did. It sets out to recreate the event and does so with an excellence not very often found in American film-making.

As we see the story unfold on how the invasion was executed, we wonder how it was even possible for it to begin. Over 5,000 ships and nearly a quarter million men and their equipment were involved in the Allied invasion.

Yet, after one postponement, it did begin in weather conditions much less than ideal — in weather so bad that the German command could not believe it was the invasion until the Allied armada opened fire on the Normandy beaches.

We are carried in time and space from battlefield to battlefield during the first 24 hours of the invasion.

We see the action of the first attack by troops who land in gliders.

We see the frustration of the enemy who realizes the invasion has come but does have the proper defense for his coastal position because aircraft squadrons and tank battalions were withdrawn to protect Adolf Hitler.

We see, above all, how when one man fell, he was replaced by another.

These incidents and many others like them are presented with a dramatic realism that continues through the story of the invasion without pause.

The motion picture is a dramatic tribute to the men who lived through and to those who died in the Normandy invasion. Young people of the post-war era will appreciate it and remember. Older people who lived through it or through the waiting at home will consider it a monumental memorial to a monumental event.

Patrolmen Honor Highway Worker

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A quiet-mannered employee in the State Highway Department's bureau of bridges has been made an honorary member of the Ohio Highway Patrol.

Patrolmen decided to honor 64-year-old Joseph V. Goldberg after learning it was he who drew the original sketches for their badges and insignia 29 years ago.

Now the patrol is considering a special flag. They think Goldberg is just the man to design it.

Picnics, Dinners, Rehearsals All Prelude To Selection of Miss Wisconsin at Oshkosh

Post-Crescent Staff Writer
OSHKOSH — Faster than you could say "Miss Wisconsin Pageant" the 21 contestants, staging directors, master of ceremonies and musicians got into the swing of the event Wednesday and Thursday with fast-moving rehearsals. While the first of the practice sessions dealt with opening numbers and proper positions the girls should take on the stage, Thursday's work covered the swim suit and evening gown competition and the talent numbers.

The ensemble sparkled through the "June Is Bustin' Out All Over" introductory number, then polished that off with the Parade of Cities, climaxed by the appearance of the reigning Miss Wisconsin, Miss Joan Mary Engh. The rehearsal crowd of chaperones, committee members and pageant officials applauded more lustily with every appearance of the personable Miss Engh.

By the end of the two-hour practice session, the timing and formation of the opening sequence was perfect.

Hostess Led Parade

During the Parade of Cities the orchestra played "You'll Never Walk Alone" while the girls made their way down the runway. Miss Jane Kozak, the 1962 Miss Oshkosh and the official pageant hostess led the parade. She was followed by Miss Roberta D'Ambrosio, Miss Appleton.

Part of the early rehearsing was used to iron out the musical selections and to get the girls assigned to places on stage. Each girl had received a diagrammed form to study.

By the middle of rehearsal, most of the girls had learned to remember that there was a step leading onto the runway. Miss Maniower, Miss Margaret Hartman, almost went down earlier when her heel caught on the step.

The girls curtsy when Miss

Engh returns from the runway and many of them had trouble with their large hoops getting in the way.

Staging directors Mrs. Larry Habermann and Mrs. Francis Spellman kept things moving continuously. Mrs. Habermann is a former Miss Milwaukee and Mrs. Spellman is a former Miss Appleton.

Timing, Lighting Set
At the four-hour talent rehearsal the girls went through their numbers to get timing, lighting and cues shipshape. No talent number may run longer than three minutes and master of ceremonies Herb Willis was "official timer".

Tonight Group B, of which Miss Appleton and Miss Oshkosh, Miss Jill Bylow are members, competes in the talent competition at 8 p. m. at the Civic Auditorium. Group A will compete in the evening gown and swimsuit competition.

Miss Bylow's trampoline-comedy act took 2:36 to complete. Five gentlemen surround the trampoline for safety's sake. Miss DiAmbrosio performed next, singing two selections from "West Side Story," "Tonight" and "I Have A Love." It took 2:48 to complete.

Miss Omro, Miss Sylvia Pries brought the rehearsal house down with her rendition of "Nobody," modeled after Carol Burnett's version.

After breakfast with the judges this morning the two groups alternated having interviews with the judges and rehearsing. A general rehearsal began at 3 p. m. today.

The girls were guests at the Miss Wisconsin banquet Thursday at the Athearn Hotel.

After competition tonight preliminary awards will be given for the swim suit competition in Group A and the talent competition in Group B.

PAGEANT PATTERN—The official chauffeurs for the Miss Wisconsin contestants are members of the Torque Auto Club of Oshkosh. . . . Former Miss Wisconsin contestants agreed that this is the first time rehearsals have been so complete for the state event. In past pageants some girls didn't get a chance to rehearse for all phases of the competition. . . .

Miss Omro was born in Sterlingshire, Scotland. . . . After her trampoline act, Miss Oshkosh admitted she was "just dead", took a seat with some of the other contestants, and continued knitting on a ski sweater she is making. . . . Miss Bayland, Linda Madson, was the first woman to hit a hole-in-one at the Oneida Golf and Riding Club, Green Bay. Her father, incidentally, is Elmer Madson, chief of police in Packerland. . . . If you believe in averages, the next Miss Wisconsin will be 5 feet, 5 inches tall, weigh 117 pounds and be 19 years old. She will have blue eyes and brown hair. Her vital measurements will be 34-23-35. This is what a compilation of all the contestants' statistics shows. . . . The tallest candidate is Miss Oshkosh, who is 5 feet-8 1/2 inches tall. Miss Franklin, Miss Nanette Durke, is the shortest contestant at 5 feet-1 inch.

The 21 Young Women spending the week in Oshkosh as Miss Wisconsin candidates got acquainted with each other Wednesday as they began their Pageant activities at a cookout at the Power Boat Club. Above is one of the boats that took the girls for a ride before dinner. They then returned to begin serious rehearsals for their competition, to be held Friday and Saturday.

South won the first trick with the king of hearts, cashed the king of clubs and tried a finesse with dummy's jack of clubs.

It was courageous as all get out, but not highly successful. East took the queen of clubs and returned a heart. South never saw dummy again, and wound up taking only seven tricks.

I didn't say South's courage was well-advised; I just said there was nothing like it. Another line of play was far better, but perhaps South wanted to give the opponents a sporting chance.

Wrong Finesse

South took the wrong club finesse. Instead of cashing the king of clubs first, he should lead a low club at the second trick to finesse with dummy's jack.

If East wins with the queen, South can later overtake the king with dummy's ace to run the rest of the suit. If East refuses the first club trick, South can try the diamond finesse.

When the diamond finesse works, South can get back to dummy by overtaking the king of clubs for another diamond finesse. Then he has nine sure tricks.

"This line of play works if East takes the first club, if anybody has the doubleton queen of clubs, or if East has the king of diamonds, or if the diamonds break 3-3. The combination gives declarer favor-

NOTES TO A NOVICE CAMPER

High Altitude Camping
Allow plenty of time for cooking at high altitudes. Higher elevations make longer cooking necessary.

Water Safety
When in doubt about the purity of the water in the area, boil all drinking water at least five minutes.

Clean-up Conveniences
Take along lots of disposable materials—aluminum foil, paperware, plastic bags—they are worth their weight in gold for quick clean-ups and easier cooking.

Concentrated Flavor
Even if you don't use mixes at home, look into sauces, gravies, soups, beverages and dinners in "box" form. They do add to camping pleasure and lighten the grocery load.

able odds of 3 to 1, whereas the club finesse that South actually took is only an even money shot.

Play with the odds and let the other fellow show how brave he is.

Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player, to 18 points. You hold: S 7 4 H 8 5 3 D 8 6 2 C A J 10 9 8. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs. This is a natural bid, not the Stayman Convention, after an opponent has doubled. You would rather play the hand at two clubs than let your partner struggle with one no-trump doubled. Moreover, if the doubler's partner is going to take the double out this is your cheap chance to show your suit.

Men Afraid Spectacles Soften Masculine Image

BY JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Despite men to adapt, he says.

Minus glasses himself, hazel-eyed, sandy-haired Nelson is not trying to sell glasses or frames. His chief task is to prod people into looking after their eyes.

He worries about perfunctory eye examinations in public schools. "Twenty to 30 per cent of young school children can't see well enough to work well."

He frets about the poor light in which women do their household chores. "They can become irritable, hard to live with."

Most of all he broods over the sneakiness of many eye diseases. "Of the 30,000 cases of blindness every year, half are unnecessary."

The most dangerous sneak thief of all is glaucoma. "Two per cent of all people 40 have glaucoma and don't even know it. In the early stages, when it could be caught and cured, the victim isn't aware of the symptoms."

If Nelson has to scare people to jar them out of their reluctance, subconscious or conscious, to check up on their eyes, or to wear glasses once they're told to, that's all right with him. The seriousness of the matter scares him, too.

Women on the other hand fuss more, but fussing is a part of their ability to adjust quickly to this or any emotional problem.

This much healthier tendency to let off steam and then relent partially accounts for the fact that 57 per cent of females wear glasses contrasted to the 45 per cent among men.

Women live longer, and this justifies the statistics somewhat, but not enough since there is no physical difference in eyes of men or women.

As executive secretary of a non-profit public education organization, Better Vision Institute, Nelson is hopeful that all people will face up to the fact that once they're over 45 their sight is likely to become impaired, or curtailed.

Gift Program Renews Shoppers' Stamp War

BY JOY STILLEY
NEW YORK (AP)—I am about to organize a society for the prevention of cruelty to housewives.

And once my fellow-sufferers learn what's being dreamed up for us now, they'll be lining up to join.

Having just emerged—sticky but triumphant—from the trading stamp wars, I thought perhaps I could sit in a corner for a while and lick my wounds and my stamps.

But now, to a nation of battle-scarred housewives, has come word that a new gift program is in the making to further complicate the shopping processes of the family purchasing agent.

It's called the Gift Star Program, and while its proponents are quick to claim advantages over trading stamp plans, the two systems differ in about the same way as typhoid fever and bubonic plague.

Strategy Needed

I've had to plan my shopping strategy with the cunning of a five-star general ever since the battle of the stamp books erupted with a blast of rainbow-colored and plaid buckshot.

I may be spending more on shoe soles than I'm saving on stamps in a determined effort to collect more books than the public library. But it has trimmed my

JACK SMITH NOW MR. SNOB

Dear Louise: After graduating from high school, my buddy and I went together to the same college. At the beginning of our sophomore year my father died and I had to drop out. My buddy graduated and eventually arranged to get me a job in the same company he works for. Through ability and some exceptionally good breaks, he climbed the executive ladder. Our paths haven't crossed as often as they did. I spoke to him yesterday in the hall and he suggested that from now on he address him around the office as "Mr. Smith." After all our years together as close friends, don't you think I'm still entitled to call him Jack?

Louise Davis Answers:

That hurt, didn't it? It even hurt me. You two should be calling each other by your first names, but it looks as if you're no longer buddies. Jack is now a stranger. ... aloof. It also looks to me that the ladder-climber is too big for his britches. If he continues with his holier than thou attitude, I think he'll eventually get pared down to size. No one can get along in business or social life without developing maturity and without using wisdom and humility. I advise you to call this stranger "Mr. Smith" and do it gladly. The old Jack doesn't exist any more. He has been giving himself a veneer unbefitting a gentleman, a friend and a junior executive.

Your Problems

Wife Disgusted When 'Friend' Drinks as Excuse to Flirt

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: At first I just smoldered when my "friend" pretended to be a little high. Liquor is supposed to excuse all those cute passes at my husband. Now I'm in flames.

This has been going on for quite some time but I've hated to let anyone know how it infuriates me. After last Saturday night I think perhaps I should tell the bimbo off.

After a few martinis, this co-called social register dame jumped on my husband's lap, fell into his arms, and invited him to crawl behind the sofa with her in search of an earring. All this under the guise of being loaded, of course. In the meantime she could drink any truck driver under the table.

I am fed up on the whole disgusting business but I need a more level head than mine to decide what to do about it. — Fire in White Plains

Dear Fire: This "Don't blame me, I'm drunk" routine is as old as the grape.

It's always a mistake to tell another woman to leave your husband alone. It usually encourages the wench. She'll figure you are frightfully insecure and decide that maybe she does have a chance, after all.

Wildly aggressive females who throw themselves at men look cheap. If the wife can handle the situation with dignity this kind of character will look even cheaper. Keep your head up and your mouth closed.

DEAR ANN LANDER: I work in an office where all the girls get along pretty well. Two of these girls told me they did not want to open up charge accounts because they were afraid they'd be tempted to spend more money than they should. So they asked if they could charge on my account. They promised to have the money in my hands by the time the bill came due.

For the first couple of months it worked fine. They paid as promised. But for the past four months I've had nothing but trouble.

One girl "forgets" what she bought, and I have to track down-sales slips to prove it was her tell me what to do — Super-purchase and not mine. The other girl is always broke. Now she owes me for articles she charged in March.

If I tell them they can't use my account any more it will break up our friendship. Please

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of a 45-year-old father who addresses his 9-year-old son as "Sweetie Pie?"

I have begged my husband to stop it. If any of the kids in the neighborhood hear him the boy will be teased unmercifully. "Sweetie Pie" is not a nickname of endearment. My husband uses it when he is annoyed with the boy — which is about 90 per cent of the time.

We have two other sons and my husband has never given them any nicknames. I believe he is actually hostile to this particular child and this is his way of teasing him. What can I do about it? — Unhappy Mother

Dear Mother: Your husband sounds like a kid himself. Tell him to cut it out or his son will grow up to despise him — if he doesn't already.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

New Slacks Adopting Trim Look

Trimly tailored slacks are the trend for summer.

The lean, lithe lines of the new styles are highlighted by smooth fitting waists and trouser legs that taper down to cuffs as narrow as 17" at the bottom.

In dressier slacks you'll be seeing both single-pleat and pleat-less models, with pleatless styles rapidly gaining in popularity. Some models have cuffs, while on others the cuffs have been eliminated to emphasize the long, tapering line.

For comfortable fit at the waistline, some slacks have either outside or concealed adjustable tabs. Still other styles have built-in elastic-type support tailored right into the waistband. This not only holds the shirt well in place, but has a neat slimming effect on the waistline.

Smooth Materials
As for fabrics, smooth materials such as lightweight worsteds and wool and polyester blends will be popular choices in a wide selection of solid colors, muted plaids, checks and new subtle stripings.

A new development well worth noting are stretch slacks. These are tailored from double knit fabrics which move when you move, but fall back into place immediately. Because of their unique construction, these practical slacks don't wrinkle or lose their shape, nor do they sag.

Turning to slacks tailored for more casual occasions we find a wider variety of fabrics on the fashion scene than ever before.

Wash and wear slacks of cotton or polyester blends, as well as cotton twill slacks, are practical additions to a sportswear wardrobe.

Bright Colors
The spotlight is on nubby, textured fabrics such as linen, or blends that resemble linen, and raw silk — in striking shades of honey beige, yellow twist of lemon or banana, rust and soft blue.

Some men will want to add color to their wardrobes with bright madras plaid slacks.

And colors such as red, green, and charcoal give those old favorites, denim slacks, a new look.

You'll be seeing still other styles of slacks designed specifically for active sports. If you're a golfer, you'll want a pair of comfortable, well-fitting golfing slacks styled with easy flowing lines to allow plenty of freedom of movement, especially through the hips. Here again the colors are bright, red, blue, tan, olive, and the popular fabrics are linen and polyester blends.

For boating enthusiasts there is Grilled Fish Has Savory Stuffing

This is the time of the year when the men don the chef's apron, take skewer in hand, and show off their culinary talents.

The mouth-watering aroma of herb-seasoned stuffed fish roasting over the charcoal fire will excite the appetites of guests and neighbors as well.

This savory stuffing has a unique and luscious taste which enhances the flavor of any fish. Large fish, such as red snapper, sea bass, cod, blue, and striped bass are best for this summer-time feast.

Barbecued Stuffed Fish
4 to 5 pounds fish
Salt, pepper
2 cups packed herb-seasoned stuffing
1/2 cup snipped parsley
2/3 cup water
1/2 cup melted butter
Melted butter for basting
Wash and clean fish. Thoroughly dry inside of fish; lightly season with salt and pepper.

Combine herb-seasoned stuffing, parsley, water and one-third cup melted butter. Toss together lightly. Stuff fish with mixture. Secure openings with skewers or heavy tread. Place fish in folding wire grill.
When fire is ready, barbecue fish about 15 to 20 minutes on each side, basting occasionally with remaining melted butter. The cooking time may vary, depending on size of fish and heat of the fire. Recipe serves six to eight persons.

The Ailing House Stained Car Seat

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: When I washed the windows on my car, I used a brown paper towel for drying and left it on the seat. Now there is a stain. How can I get this off?

A: Try careful rubbing of the stain with a nonflammable liquid spot remover. If this doesn't work, apply a mild chlorine bleach solution to the stained area, rinsing off with clear water. I am assuming the seat is plastic covered.

Q: We are making a patio and are interested in building an outdoor barbecue pit. Where can we get pictures and information on this?

A: The following publish detailed, well-illustrated, books on barbecue building, at nominal cost: Lane Publishing Co., Menlo Park, Calif.; Popular Mechanics Press, 200 E. Ontario St., Chicago 11; Fawcett Publishing Co., Greenwich, Conn. These are available at many paper back book outlets, or from the publisher. Free instruction leaflets on concrete projects around the home are available from Portland Cement Association, 33, W. Grand Ave., Chicago 10.

A Lovelier You

Tan Must Come Gradually

The sun is a friend to your beauty, when you partake of its goodness in small amounts. Otherwise it becomes your enemy.

The pain of a burn is the least of the consequences. Dryness, wrinkles and aging are hastened by too much sun. Doctors report that serious skin disorders are triggered by burning.

Why chance any of those disasters? Surely not for the sake of a quick tan!

To benefit your health and looks, tanning must be a gradual process and be accompanied by safeguarding sun lotions and creams. The best of them are non-greasy and formulated with emollients or moisturizers. After that, performance varies to suit individual needs—the amount of sun your skin can take.

For hardy skin, there are lotions that won't fast, yet safe tan. To coddle and prevent dry skin, products necessarily take a slower approach. Some of them are tinted, so that you look tan while you tan. A third type aims to pamper super-sensitive skin via deep filters, or else with blocks that shut out sun rays altogether.

For the nose that has always worn a nose guard, the new trick is a completely invisible protector. Applications let you discard the guard and look really snootie for a change!

Obviously, by using a sunscreen that's right for you, you would make an ally of Old Sol. As a re-

Korth Denies TFX Contract Favoritism

Korth said he had recommended the award.

The white haired Navy secretary said flatly the award served the best interests of the Navy and the nation, and that he expects the senators will reach the same conclusion after they get all the facts.

He pictured the General Dynamics version as 320 miles an hour faster than Boeing's at high altitude, 150 miles an hour faster at low altitude. The top speed has been described in testimony as about two and a half times the speed of sound.

Korth said the General Dynamics plane could stay aloft longer than Boeing's — 50 per cent longer over an assault area at extreme long range.

He said Boeing's design had unacceptable maneuvering restrictions, and that at extreme altitudes and speeds the General Dynamics version would be twice as maneuverable.

Boeing, he said, had a not highly significant advantage of lighter weight, but the General Dynamics version had an advantage of being smaller.

Lead-Off Man

Korth was the committee's own selection as a lead-off man for the Pentagon's civilian chiefs in presenting their side of the story in these final rounds of the long and often stormy inquiry. The hearings started Feb. 26.

The Pentagon summary pictured Korth as declaring firmly that the design by General Dynamics, with Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. as its chief subcontractor, was less complex and therefore more likely to be produced sooner for less money than Boeing's, and with less risk of failure.

TFX (Tactical Fighter, Experimental) still is in the design and development stage, years away from its first test flight. McNamara said it will be the world's best manned warplane, and he has estimated the ultimate overall cost for 1,700 of them at upwards of $6.5 billion.

The contract immediately under study is a relatively minor $28 million one for development.

Subcommittee members said privately Korth among others would be quizzed sharply about the reasons behind the Kennedy administration's decision not to reappoint Adm. George W. Anderson as Chief of Naval Operations, after Anderson had testified that he regarded Boeing's as the better design.

Testimony to date has been contradictory.

Preliminary Round

In a preliminary round on the witness stand McNamara insisted that prospects for a $1 billion saving on the project would have evaporated had the contract gone to Boeing.

Witnesses for the uniformed Air Force and Navy contended it would cost hundreds of millions of dollars to bring the General Dynamics design to a par with that of Boeing.

Korth was picked to give part of the answers to these conflicts, and to explain his own role in advising McNamara on the award.

The Pentagon has let it be known it had wanted to send in Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert with a 100-page prepared statement as its leadoff witness in this final round of the inquiry. It said the subcommittee had fixed the order of witnesses, and had not disclosed whom it will call after Korth.

At the outset of his speech Kennedy presented to the Irish nation a flag of the Irish brigade which fought in the U.S. Civil War.

His remarks were punctuated by applause from a chamber packed with distinguished guests including Prime Minister Sean Lemass and U.S. Ambassador Matthew McCloskey.

Kennedy flew back to Dublin from Cork, where he was made a freeman of the city. There he told a cheering crowd that when he retires he will take great satisfaction "in not only being president of my country but a freeman of this city."

Legislative Leaders Get Secretaries in New Law

MADISON (AP)—A bill authorizing six legislative leaders to employ secretaries on a permanent basis was signed into law Thursday by Gov. John W. Reynolds.

Those who will get secretaries are the lieutenant governor, Assembly speaker, majority and minority leaders of Senate and Assembly, and the Assembly and Senate chairmen of the Joint Finance Committee.

'Compromise' Tax Plan Teetering Near Failure

lion appropriation to extend the tax relief granted utilities in a 1961 tax compromise would kick the current spending-taxation settlement $15 million out of balance.

The Republican caucus is known to have a plan for wiping out the deficit, but the Democrats probably won't buy it.

The GOP strategy would revamp the bill's taxation of tobacco products and cigarettes to pick up $7.4 million through an additional two cents a pack excise tax on cigarettes. The levy would bring state taxes on cigarettes to eight cents a pack.

To complete the bill's financial balance, the Republican approach would bring from the budget side $4.3 million in pay raises to state employees, $2.6 million from the Public Welfare Department, and $900,000 from the Department of Administration budget.

Compromise Impossible

The senate toiled over the proposed changes knowing legislative passage of the compromise before Monday's start of a new biennium was impossible because of the Assembly's decision to adjourn until Monday.

Temper flared in the hot Senate chamber Thursday when an 18-15 vote put the final stamp on a decision to eliminate from the the $1.6 million item because of "lobbying by higher-ups in the newspaper business."

"It is the same kind of lobbying in other situations," Zaborski said.

Sen. Gerald Lorge, R - Bear Creek, defended the tax elimination.

"To begin now to tax newspapers, which is in effect taxing free speech, we are also jeopardizing our own freedom of speech," said Lorge.

With the newspaper tax eliminated, the Senate moved on to add to the budget a $795,000 appropriation to provide state financing for four county school superintendents and supervising teachers in the second year of the new biennium.

State aid would have been stopped after July 1, 1964 under the bill's original terms.

Also adopted was an amendment raising the $115,000 appropriation to state recreational advertising a total of $35,000 to help cover the cost of producing the world's largest cheese and displaying it at the New York World's Fair next year.

Zaborski closed Thursday's debate with a gloomy commentary on the bill's chances of enactment.

Some Western officials suspect the Communist leaders may take the occasion to renew demands for a German peace treaty. This Soviet device for threatening the allied position in West Berlin was put on ice last year and barely has been mentioned in recent months.

Slogans, Placards

Slogans and placards put up in East Berlin for the visitors gave no hint, however, that a revival of the peace treaty demand was in the offing.

The slogans praised German Soviet friendship and "our great friend Nikita Khrushchev." They also contained such soothing sentiments as "every good deed for socialism helps to preserve world peace."

A persistent but uncomfortable rumor said Khrushchev would bring girl cosmonaut Valentina Tereshkova and other Soviet space travelers to East Berlin to laud Soviet achievements were lauded prominently in the placards, and huge pictures of Valentina and her cosmic colleagues were placed along Khrushchev's route from the airport.

The Communist press and radio called on East Germans to cheer Khrushchev on his 15-mile route from the airport to the East Berlin city hall and then to Ulbricht's residence in the Pankow suburb.

But the drab, washed-out flags put up for Khrushchev were faded from frequent use and failed utterly to give East Berlin the festive air which West Berlin displayed for Kennedy.

AMA Told Auto Fumes Can be Asthma Cause

BY ARTHUR J. SNIDER
Chicago Daily News Service
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — It is now becoming evident that auto fumes are sending patients to doctors' offices with attacks of respiratory illnesses, the American Medical Association was told today.

While it has long been recognized that bronchial epidemics can result from a sudden sharp increase in atmospheric pollution, there has been little attention to the daily cases occurring among individual patients, said Dr. Frank L. Rosen of Maplewood, N. J. Dr. Rosen, chairman of the meteorology committee of the American College of Surgeons, said rarely does the general physician or even the allergist consider air pollution in the search for the cause of a running nose, burning eyes, bronchitis or an asthma attack.

He described the case of a 40-year-old woman who moved to a new home within a block of a heavily traveled highway. Her asthma attacks suddenly resumed and did not abate until she moved to a new area.

A middle-aged man developed asthma attacks on his way to work, while in heavy traffic.

"So far as I know, no practical solution has yet been achieved for the tail-pipe exhaust, which is responsible for at least 70 percent of the air pollution from motor vehicles," said Dr. Rosen.

Menasha Man Named Director Of Paper Group

Stuart E. Thompson, Central Paper Co., Menasha, was elected to the board of the directors of the Paper and Twine Association at the organization's 29th annual convention at French Lick, Ind., last week.

Warren Ritchie, Chatfield Paper Corp., was elected president of the association.

Other officers are Edward F. Herrlinger, Gunned Products Co., Inc., Troy, Ohio, vice-president, and Joseph L. Knack, owner of Joseph L. Knack and Associates, Chicago, Ill., executive secretary-treasurer.

Other directors are Richard H. Eggleston, the Fox Paper Co., Cincinnati, Ohio; Harold P. Jackson, Crescent Paper Co., Indianapolis, Ind.; and Mort Miller, Gascon Paper Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

W. D. Savadge of Union Bag-Camp Paper Corp., Chicago, Ill., is the organization's immediate past president and continues to serve on the Board of Directors.

for vehicles," said Dr. Rosen. "Auto companies and the oil industry must embark on a crash research program to render car exhausts innocuous. If nothing develops, we may have to go back to the electric automobile."

Factories Cause

Factory pollution also can cause an attack of asthma in an individual if the wind is blowing right, the allergist said. He has one patient who gets asthma only on days a neighboring chemical plant makes penicillin.

"A new offender is the jet plane," Dr. Rosen continued. "The takeoff of one commercial jet airliner has been estimated to create a quantity of air pollution equivalent to that produced by 6,580 passenger cars."

People can get asthma attacks from the burning of leaves in a neighbor's yard. A 9-year-old boy came home with asthma after attending a camp. He had been exposed not to the usual pollens or molds, as suspected, but to insecticide spray.

Not Psychosomatic

"I am convinced, after practicing allergy for 25 years, that many asthmatics are wrongly labeled psychosomatic when their trouble is coming from polluted air," said Dr. Rosen.

"The menace of air pollution is great. Yet strangely enough, most people consider it no more than a minor annoyance. We are more disturbed by local sewage problems and certainly by the more dramatic but less ubiquitous smoking-cancer relationship."

On the smoking controversy, the American Medical Association, sidetracked a resolution from the Florida delegation that cigarettes be declared a health hazard.

Awaits Study

The resolution was referred to the committee on public health, which advised that the AMA await the report of a U.S. Public Health Service study committee on tobacco "before conclusive statements regarding the hazards of the use of tobacco be endorsed."

The AMA committee said it "recognizes the deleterious effects on health of many toxic substances to which people of our country are exposed that are not related to the use of tobacco. Extensive research is still necessary for the complete answers as to the cause and effect of many toxics, including tobacco."

The committee advised, however, that the AMA "has a duty to point out the effects on the young of the use of toxic materials, including tobacco," and that "in light of present knowledge, however incomplete it might be, this fact should be disseminated, particularly in schools."

Tests Show Smokers Can Become Cigarette Addicts

You can become "addicted" to cigarettes in the true physiological meaning of the term, says Dr. Peter Knapp of Boston University. He compared 15 heavy smokers in a state of sudden abstinence with 11 like smokers allowed to smoke freely.

He found that at the start of their abstinence they had many complaints about their stomach—"empty," "gnawing," "hungry feeling"—all of which Dr. Knapp relates to their lack of nicotine, a chemical that suppresses gastric activity.

There also was some complaint about an "emptiness" in the lungs. There was vague restlessness and discomfort. Several of the experimental subjects carried cigarettes around with them to touch and smell.

Relaxing Aspect

Measurements showed a clear-cut heart slowing in abstinence and a trend toward a drop in blood pressure.

Thus, cigarettes are both a tranquilizer and a stimulant in Dr. Knapp's opinion. The relaxing aspect comes from the act itself, the deep inhalation, the sucking of something. The stimulation comes from the pharmacologic action of nicotine in stepping up the pulse rate.

Open Arms to All Brothers

Paul VI's Views of Christian Unity And Justice Similar to Pope John's

BY JAMES M. LONG
VATICAN CITY (AP) — "We open our arms to all those who glory in the name of Christ. We call them with the sweet name of brothers."

Those words sound like Pope John XXIII. But they were spoken with the younger, vibrant voice of Pope Paul VI.

"Our work, with the aid of God, will be to undertake every effort for the conservation of the great good of peace among peoples." Those words, too, sound like Pope John. They, too, were spoken by Pope Paul.

Slightly built, intense, ascetic Pope Paul resembles Pope Pius XII. But he expresses thoughts more like Pope John in terms of Christian unity, social reform and justice.

Position Known

When the conclave of cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church selected Giovanni Battista Montini to succeed Pope John, they knew where he stood.

Two weeks before he left his archbishopric of Milan to attend the conclave, he pledged support of Pope John's Ecumenical Council and his work for peace, even with the Communist countries. "It would be well," he said then, "not only to remember but to follow the course set by Pope John."

Pope Paul stated this even more plainly in his first address, the day after his election: "The pre-eminent part of our pontificate will be occupied with the continuation of the Second Vatican Ecumenical Council. This will be the principal work for which we intend to devote all the energies which the Lord gave us so that the Catholic Church . . . can attract all men to it."

Like Pope John, Pope Paul does not think Christian unity will be soon or easily achieved. But he believes the Ecumenical Council can make progress toward that goal.

One Fold

He put it this way: "The council, even if it does not have the supreme possibility to prepare future ecumenical reconciliation, it will at least have the fate of preceding another future council — the one which may celebrate the feast of all Christians finally reconciled in one fold with one pastor."

Some on the extreme left and extreme right had claimed that Pope John, in creating a new atmosphere between the church and countries under Kremlin control, had softened toward communism.

Pope Paul, too, has spoken of the need for understanding. But during his eight years as archbishop in the Red stronghold of industrial North Italy, his words left no doubt as to his ideas on communism.

"This threat in fact has spread everywhere," he said. "Communism avails itself of civic freedoms which, where communism dominates, are pitilessly oppressed. . ."

And he had words of caution about negotiating with communism: "The language (of communism) no longer has common human terms. Every compromise conceals, in atheist communism, the secret purpose to disarm those who negotiate with it, and so to subjugate them."

Cautious Messages

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other Communist leaders sent cautiously worded messages of congratulation to Pope Paul on his election. Obviously they were waiting to see what he would do about some problems.

These include negotiations started under Pope John for release of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty from his refuge in the U.S. consulate in Budapest, and the first feelers toward improving church relations with Poland and perhaps Czechoslovakia.

The Milanese were not sure how far Pope Paul would go to reopen these overtures. They remembered that the Pope, then their archbishop, put on robes of mourning in November 1956, and walked through the streets of the city carrying a 10-foot-high wooden cross. He marched at the head of a procession in penitence for the sacrifice of the Hungarian people when Soviet tanks crushed their revolt.

Paul is one of the few Popes ever to have seen America. He was there in 1951 and in 1960 when he and Dwight D. Eisenhower received honorary degrees from Notre Dame University at South Bend, Ind. On that trip Pope Paul

Hypnotic Look

Pope Paul is five feet eight inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. His grey hair is sparse. His blue eyes, deep set under heavy black eyebrows, have an intense, almost hypnotic look.

He speaks fluent French and good English in addition to Latin and Italian. He also has considerable knowledge of German and Spanish and knows some Polish.

He eats lightly, seldom sleeps more than six hours a night, and drives himself intensely in his work.

Pope Paul enjoys television. He delights in quiz programs and follows transmissions of bicycle racing. He always has been a bike fan. He also enjoys his large collection of records of classical and religious music. He surrounds himself with books.

Because of his intense energy Pope Paul has been called "The Pope in a hurry."

His chauffeur, when he was Archbishop of Milan, said the Pope liked to have the car driven fast. When they were out of heavy traffic, the Pope would lean forward and urge, gently: "don't sleep."

Records Set In Appleton's First Heat Wave

Three-Day Water Pumpage Totals 32 Million Gallons

The first heat wave of the summer has set all-time pumpage records at the Appleton water plant. The peak was reached Wednesday when 11,150,000 gallons were used by residential and industrial consumers.

Plant Supt. William Gallaher said Thursday's heavy rainfall took the pressure off the plant which pumped a total of 32,845,000 gallons from the Fox River for the three-day period covering Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Gallaher said the previous single day pumpage record was 10,700,000 gallons.

Although the local plant is rated to process 13,000,000 gallons per day, Gallaher said its actual maximum pumpage capacity was 12,000,000.

"We have never had three consecutive days in history of the plant in which so much water was processed as was the case this week," Gallaher said.

On Monday the pumpage totaled 10,650,000 gallons; Tuesday, 11,040,000; and Wednesday, 11,150,000.

Rain Causes Drop

Thursday's pumpage was 9,040,000 gallons, the drop caused by the heavy rain.

Water pressure levels apparently held up well during the three-day peak period, and city officials have made no mention of possible future sprinkling restrictions.

Also on the subject of water, swimmers will be unable to make use of the more than 250,000 gallons in the Erb Park pool Monday and Tuesday because it will be shut down to permit repair of the filters. The pool will be reopened Wednesday.

And, while Appleton residents combated the heat this week, it was only natural that attendance at the city's two municipal pools should soar.

Recreation Director E. W. Grover St. said 24,158 persons used the facilities at Erb Park and Mead Park pools between June 12-23.

Erb recorded 13,018, and Mead checked in with 11,140.

Education School May Reject Reaccreditation

MADISON (AP)—The University of Wisconsin School of Education faculty is expected to reject the full reaccreditation granted the school by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE).

The prospect of rejection was raised Thursday by Dean Lindsey J. Stiles of the education school. He said the new action will be taken up at the next faculty meeting, scheduled for October. Provisional accreditation was turned down by the faculty last fall.

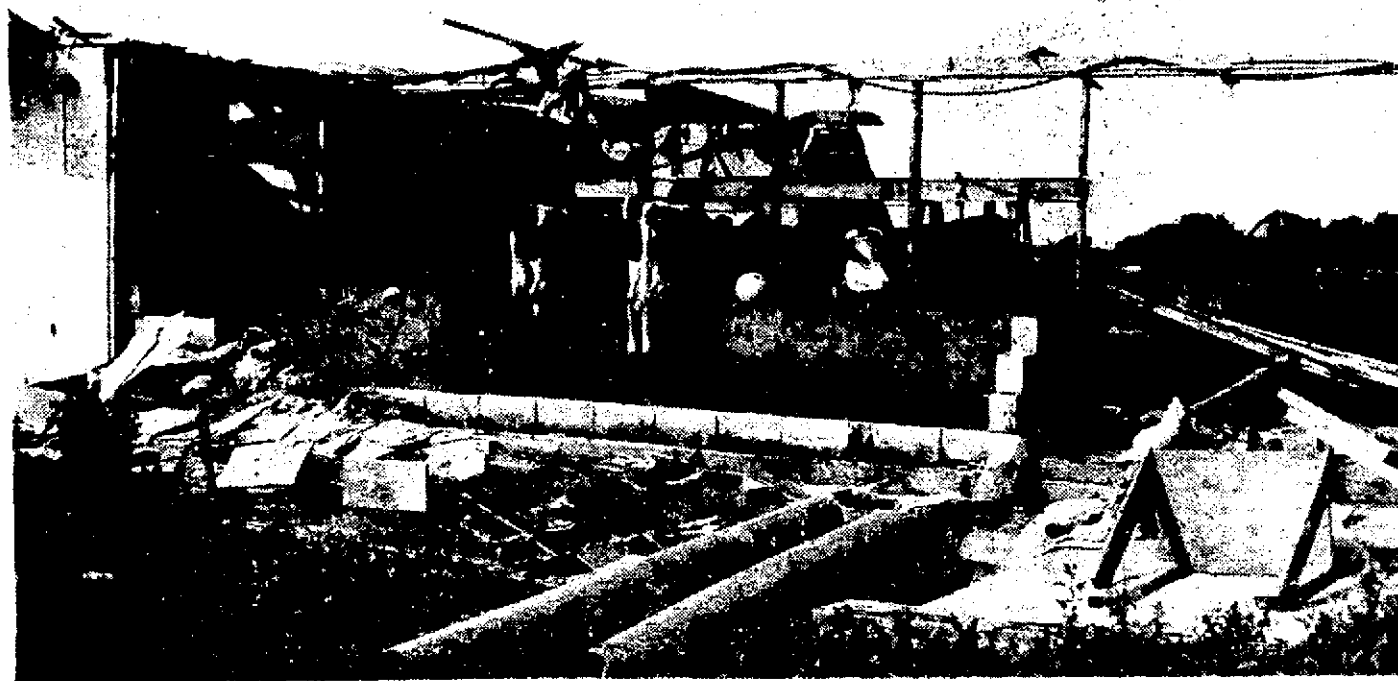

"We do appreciate the attitude of the NCATE council members, including the director, who continued to press for justice for the University of Wisconsin," Stiles said.

He continued that to mean anything, "accreditation has to come from a body constituted by the institutions being evaluated. It must be responsible and responsive to them."

The university has waged a nine-month fight against NCATE standards and policies. As a result the national commission in accrediting, NCATE's parent organization, has directed that changes be made within a year.

Apartment Building, 3 Stores Will be Built

Construction of three new stores and an apartment building on Appleton's southside has started. Total building costs will exceed $300,000.

Permits for the projects were issued by Building Inspector Charles Magnette, who said Appleton's building boom is continuing at a rapid pace.

Hoffman Drugs and the Ben Franklin Store will be located at 231 S. Walter Ave. in the southeast part of the city. An adjoining two-building complex, the stores will have a combined 10,780 square feet of space. They are being established by Rosenberg's Sons, Inc. at an estimated cost of $87,000 in an area zoned for commercial and light industrial business purposes.

The stores, to be separated by a wall, will be of masonry construction with that portion of the Ben Franklin establishment measuring 48 by 110 feet, and Hoffman Drugs, 50 by 110 feet.

The apartment building, estimated to cost in excess of $100,000, is being constructed at 700 S. Memorial Dr. in a multiple family-zoned district.

New London Potential Recreational Center

Wolf River Planning Head Says Citizens Must Get Behind Development Program

NEW LONDON — Gordon Bubolz, chairman of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning commission, told the New London Chamber of Commerce Wednesday that this city could become a recreational center because of its potential for "excellent" inland facilities.

However, he said, the people of the area must be sold on the idea, and a program must be developed and carried out.

The chamber Wednesday discussed the results of a questionnaire it had sent to city organizations asking for suggestions on developing the area.

The ideas received were divided into six categories: flood control, the river, marshes, a proposed marina, general and tourist and recreation.

Herbert Olson, chairman of the chamber's Wolf River committee, presented the list of suggestions to Bubolz and Rod Dittmer, planning director for the regional planning commission.

During discussion of the river itself, a boat speed limit or a limit on motor size was suggested as a way to promote better fishing during the spring walleye run. A better river course and channel could be maintained if wing dams were installed and soil erosion measures were taken, it was said.

Bubolz and his committee were given a tour of the city and both rivers. After seeing how the Embarrass River winds through the city, they agreed that it should be rerouted. Army engineers now are surveying the possibility, he said, and they will make their recommendations as soon as the study is completed.

Feeding Area
Because of the large amount of marsh area around New London, Waddie Nader explained, now much of this area could be turned into a second Horicon Marsh, where waterfowl would have an area to feed. The New London Fish and Game Club, of which Nader is a member, presently is working on plans to develop a pilot project of this type with the help of the state conservation department.

On the tour of the city, Nader pointed out the vast area to the west of the city which could be utilized for a waterfowl project. By maintaining the water level of the river and marsh and planting food, ducks would return to the Wolf River flyway, he said. A boat marina with modern launching facilities would attract more boaters to the area, Herbert

Olson said. A recommended spot for this would be Hatten Park, where many other recreational facilities are available. A channel could be dug from the river to the park.

Theodore Knapstein, a long-time resident of the city, said when the park was built in 1935 part of the 123-acre site was earmarked for lagoons. The same northwestern area would make an excellent boat marina, he said.

Along with better facilities and a modern camp site, trailer camp facilities should be developed and maintained, it was suggested.

Other suggestions were to assist or subsidize property owners in stoning the banks of their property along the river to improve silt and clay conditions along the Wolf and Embarrass rivers by helping to prevent erosion; to plant trees along the rivers and roads to improve the watershed, fishing and spawning areas and game habitat; to develop campsites on the Little Wolf River; and to improve and promote White Lake marsh area to preserve waterfowl and wildlife.

Couple Injured When Car Hits Parked Vehicle

Chilton Man, Wife Receive Cuts; Auto Damaged Badly

CHILTON—A Chilton man and his wife were injured when the car driven by their son struck a parked car in Hayton, east of here, about 10:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Carl Schley, 80, route 4, Chilton, and his wife, 76, are being treated at Calumet Memorial Hospital where their condition has been reported as good. Schley received shoulder injuries and facial lacerations. Mrs. Schley received lacerations on the chin.

They were passengers in a car driven by Ormie Schley, 53, route 4, Chilton, when it crashed into the rear of a parked car owned by Anton Buhl, route 4, Chilton. The impact shoved the Buhl car into the rear of another parked car owned by Herman Seipel, route 4, Chilton. The Schley vehicle was damaged extensively, police said.

Schley told police he was traveling west and said he probably fell asleep.

Elsie M. Kirvan, 46, route 1, Menasha, told a state patrolman that she swerved to avoid hitting another car when the vehicle she was driving left U.S. 10 at the Manitowoc Road intersection just south of Appleton.

The Kirvan car knocked over a stop sign and a guard rail before landing in the ditch. There were no injuries. The mishap occurred at 7:05 a.m. Wednesday.

Myron F. Zimmerman, 48, route 1, Malone, escaped injury when the car he was driving overtook after hitting a utility pole along State 149 a mile west of Kiel about 11:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Zimmerman told police his car began to weave, causing him to lose control. The car was damaged badly.

Power Knocked Out, Streets Flooded in Fox Cities Area; Lightning Strikes Buildings

High winds and heavy rains John Heideman were knocked during a thunderstorm at about 4 over.

Reason Given for Drop in Air Mail at Outagamie Port

Postal Officials Use Oshkosh Flights, Change Pick-Up Times

There is a special reason for the recent decline in the daily volume of air mail flown out of the Outagamie County Airport, it was learned today.

Until about six weeks ago air mail and air freight shipments on the southbound North Central Airlines flight to Milwaukee and Chicago had been averaging nearly 200 pounds a day.

Then came the daily drops in volume, ranging from 50 to 100 pounds.

However, a check disclosed that firms in Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and other Fox Cities communities have been sending as much air mail as ever.

A change by the Oshkosh Post Office in a star route air mail pickup service has been responsible for a good share of the early afternoon air mail from the Fox Cities being taken to Oshkosh where it is flown out of the Winnebago County Airport.

Special Arrangement
Under a special arrangement, established about two years ago, the air mail and freight was picked up by a star route carrier who started at Oshkosh and made stops at Neenah, Menasha and Appleton post offices.

Upon dropping the mail off at the Appleton Post Office, the carrier would return to Oshkosh. Local post office officials then made sure the air mail from the Fox Cities region was put on the 4:25 p.m. flight.

Like passenger counts, the Outagamie County Airport received credit for the mail and freight flown from there. Volume is healthy for the county airport and North Central, too.

Two Hours Later
The change in the pickup time of the star route carrier accounted for his air mail collections in the Twin Cities area being made close to two hours later than usual.

It raised speculation that the air mail service somehow became entangled in the issue of whether the airport at Oshkosh or the proposed new port at Appleton should be certified by the Civil Aeronautics Administration as a regional air center.

Because of the failure of the star route carrier to arrive at the Appleton Post Office with air mail from firms in the Twin Cities in time for the 4:25 p.m. flight, only Appleton's outgoing mail is being put on the North Central flight.

All air mail collected between port's air mail volume was increased at the "expense" of the Outagamie airport.

Informal Check
Realizing there had to be a reason for the dropoff of outgoing afternoon air mail at the Outagamie County port, local officials interested in air service and the future of the county's new airport certification as a regional carrier, made an informal check and learned the situation was brought about by the revised pickup time of the carrier.

Before the star carrier system was established by mutual agreement of Oshkosh and Appleton post office authorities, all air mail from the Twin Cities was flown out of the Winnebago County Airport by North Central.

Later Flight
Postal officials say the change in procedure did not affect service as far as the senders were concerned. The change was authorized by the postal department upon the apparent recommendation of Oshkosh postal authorities.

Thus, the Winnebago County

Approve Modernization At Menasha Post Office

Extension to Building Will Cost $530,000

MENASHA — A $530,000 extension and modernization project for the Menasha post office with the federal building has been approved by the post office department. Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) announced today.

Proxmire said that the project would be sent to the General Services Administration for additional planning before the architectural and engineering contracts can be awarded. No starting date for the project was mentioned. However, the General Services Administration earlier this month approved a contract for painting of the Menasha post office with some repair work included.

James Omachinski, Menasha postmaster, reported that an inspection was made of the Menasha facility about two years ago and the inspector stressed the need for more area to handle the bulk mail, a large part of the Menasha postal volume. At present much of the bulk mail handling has been in the basement.

In the meantime, Neenah residents have been urging for a new Neenah post office, stressing the inadequacy of the present facility. Neenah mail now is handled out of two locations and indications are that three sites will be needed to handle the Christmas volume. There has been no word on the Neenah post office.

According to information from Sen. Proxmire, the extension at Menasha will increase the facilities from the present 12,450 gross interior square feet to 17,620 square feet. The workroom area will be increased from 2,600 to 8,250 square feet, the office section from 1,350 to 2,190 square feet and the loading platform from 7,403 to 11,585 feet.

Proxmire said, "This extension is vitally necessary for proper expansion during the next 10 years and will prove a great economic boon to the Menasha area."

Capt. Harwood Candidate for Sheriff's Post

OSHKOSH — Although the election is more than a year away, Capt. Edwin A. Harwood, 634 Wisconsin St., Oshkosh, takes the honor for being the first candidate to seek office.

Harwood has announced his candidacy on the Republican ticket for the office of sheriff, now held by Richard T. "Bud" Lowell, who is forbidden by law to succeed himself for a third term.

Harwood has been on the Winnebago County police force since 1937, serving as investigator for four years, patrolman for 16 years and captain since 1956. He is a past president of the Winnebago County Police Association and is a member of the Oshkosh Elks Lodge.

He was born in Oshkosh and is 56 years old.

He also granted a partial disability pension to another police officer who retired within the past few years.

He added that he was of the impression that one or more firemen were also granted partial disability pensions upon their retirements.

The disability pension is figured as part of the regular retirement pension and is not an additional figure, Schaller said.

OSHKOSH — The Racine Kilties and the Oshkosh K-Y Warriors drum and bugle corps will entertain downtown shoppers tonight with a preview of Saturday night's Pageant of Music program.

The two corps will present a brief marching exhibition on Main Street at 8:30 p.m. and then divide into three groups and perform in the parking lots of the three Oshkosh banks.

Booster buttons for admission to the state-wide drum and bugle corps competition at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at the Jackson Street Field will be sold by parents of the K-Y Warriors, and at the YMCA and Wilson's.

Concert

The Oshkosh High School concert band, under the direction of James Croft, has been added to the Pageant of Music and the Miss Wisconsin parade Saturday afternoon. A color guard and rifle drill team from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station have also been added to the parade.

The color guard will consist of two standard bearers carrying the United States flag and the Training Center flag, with a military guard escort. The drill team consists of 16 volunteer Navy men from the Training Center's electronics technicians school.

The Pageant of Music will be opened with an hour-long concert by the Oshkosh High School and U. S. Navy Great Lakes bands.

After the drum and bugle corps competition between eight of the top groups in the Midwest, the K-Y Warriors will present a marching exhibition.

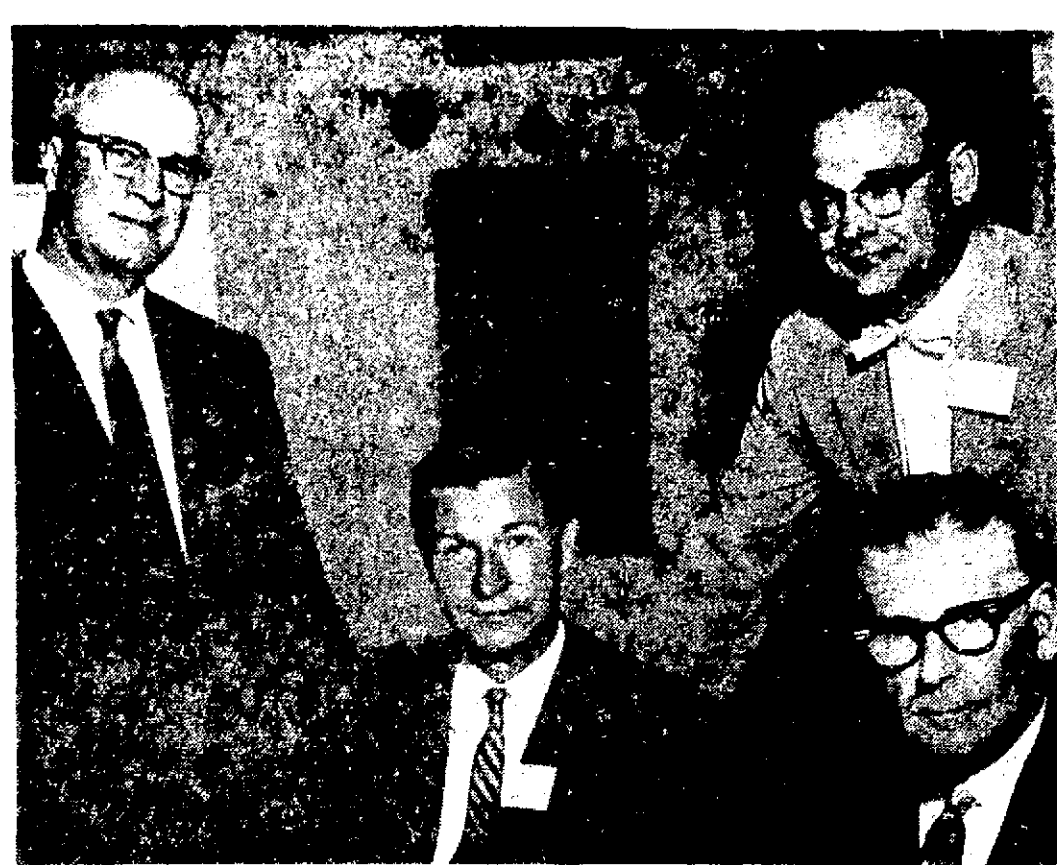

Volunteer Fireman Sets Blazes to Fight

MARYSVILLE, Calif. (AP)—At the rural Linda Fire Station, Chief Charley Miller could always count on volunteer Larry Barrie.

But lately, fighting 16 grass fires, Miller said Barrie outdid himself. The chief said the lad often was the first to report into the station and often had the engine warmed up ready to go when the chief showed up.

After blaze No. 16, Miller found out why. Police said witnesses saw Barrie driving his car along a road dropping lighted matches into the dry grass, then roaring off to the fire station.

Barrie was booked on an arson charge.

Man Kills Self In Kenosha

Police Say Incident Was End of Attempt To Repair Romance

KENOSHA (AP) — A Chicago man shot himself fatally after a woman was wounded Thursday in what Kenosha County authorities said appeared to be the violent end of an attempt to repair a broken romance.

Wasil Masaruk, 40, of Chicago died early today at a Kenosha hospital.

Mrs. Mary Prywada, 44, was reported in fair condition after surgery with wounds in the shoulder, side and arm.

Deserted by Husband

Desk Officer Jerry Lentz, reading the report of investigating officers, said they gave this account:

Mrs. Prywada, deserted by her husband 10 years ago, had been visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Chomeczak, at their home in Camp Lake, about 22 miles west of here.

Early in the afternoon, Mrs. Prywada went outside to her new car and moments later Mrs. Chomeczak heard screams. The mother ran outside and found Mrs. Prywada hysterical in the auto.

Mrs. Chomeczak said Masaruk, armed with a pistol, ran up to the car and fired four shots. Masaruk then went into the house, reloaded the pistol and shot himself as Mrs. Chomeczak, 79, looked on.

The mother told authorities that her daughter and Masaruk began keeping company about four years ago but that they broke up some four months ago.

Committee Formed Seeking Beer Bar Ordinance Repeal

OSHKOSH — Organization of a formal committee to work for repeal of the recently passed ordinance prohibiting teen-age beer bars in Oshkosh, was announced today.

Officers of the group are J. T. Butler, 1552 Algoma Blvd., and Bruce Robertson, 641 Evans St., co-chairmen; Frank M. Hayes, 416 E. Irving Ave., treasurer, and Shirley Mech, 916 Wright St., secretary.

The group, who call themselves "The Oshkosh Committee For Workable Ordinance," said they plan to file petitions Tuesday with the common council asking for repeal of the ordinance or for a general referendum.

The committee said they had more than 1,500 signers of formal petitions in less than one week and that many petitions are still out.

In a statement, the committee said "a surprising number of signers indicated great concern over the fact the council did not permit the controversy to go to referendum, and also great resentment over the organized methods and pressures applied to cause the 21-year-old ordinance to be enacted today."

"It was felt that even if the ordinance were enforced it could easily be avoided by traveling to establishments on the outskirts of the city now existing or to those to be converted to beer bars."

Other committee members listed include D. W. Stowe, 939 Grand St., Roland Leil, 1019 Ceape Ave., Dennis Jones, 1716 Mt. Vernon St., and Herman Kromm, 945 N. Sawyer St.

County Democrats Censure Van Pelt

MENASHA — Winnebago County Democrats Thursday night in their meeting at the Elisha D. Smith Library here censured Cong. William K. Van Pelt, Republican from Fond du Lac, for voting against the Area Redevelopment Administration.

Five Wisconsin Republican congressmen could have saved the bill to extend the area development administration. "A bill badly needed in Wisconsin," Edward K. Weber, Winnebago County Democrat party chairman, told the group.

The bill was defeated by only five votes in the house last week.

Week's Polio Cases Reach High for Year

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Communicable Disease Center said today that nine cases of paralytic polio were reported in the United States last week, five of them in the Carlisle, Pa., area.

It was the greatest number of cases reported in any single week this year.

The center said four states—Alabama, Tennessee, Arkansas and Illinois—each reported one case during the week ending June 22.

Reported polio cases in the entire nation so far this year continue to run well below previous years, the center said.

Nature Hurt by People, Group Told

Wolf River Conservationists Learn of Problem for Future

NEW LONDON — People who hamper conservation were subject of an address by Dr. Jacob Shapiro, Oshkosh State College, at a Wolf River Basin conservationists' meeting Wednesday.

The biggest block in conservation today is people, Dr. Shapiro said. This group can be found in hunting and in other types of sports. It is difficult to find broad-minded people, he added.

Then there is the "don't bother me and I won't bother you" group which uses the attitude of don't look at it and maybe it will go away. This group isn't doing anything for conservation either, he added.

His final category of people was the anti-management group. No one can tell these people that things can be changed," he said, "and they don't want to be bothered with facts."

Swinging from people who hamper conservation advances, Dr. Shapiro moved to the conservationists themselves.

"I understand that conservation is a hard subject to teach because it is hard to define," he said, "but everything the conservation department is doing and has done is not right."

We must understand what nature is and also understand that we can't change it because we are a part of it, he said. Legislation to protect wildlife may be good but why so much of it? There are more laws pertaining to wildlife than any other subject and many of these oppose the basic nature of wildlife, he said. Predators are part of nature and can't be eliminated.

Some animals shouldn't be destroyed just because they affect our lives. As an example, Dr. Shapiro cited the coyote of Arizona. First they killed all the coyotes and now the state is importing them to cut down on the ground hog population. There must be a balance, he added.

Have Same Laws

Refuges are also a mistake of the conservation department, he said. The only refuges that will work are those for waterfowl which use the area to rest or for temporary feeding. You can't put more than five gallons of water in a five gallon pail, he said. This same law works with wildlife.

Artificial stocking of wildlife such as pheasants and trout and then expecting the ones that are not shot or caught to survive and multiply is another misconception of people, Dr. Shapiro said. Using another illustration, he said, it would be the same as dumping a person in the middle of Alaska. A person panics the same as the animals and fish do, he emphasized.

If proper habitat is maintained then the increase of birds, animals or fish will take care of itself, he told the group. Habitat, he explained, is everything an animal needs throughout life, and not just food.

Must Be Involved

To promote good conservation the program must be sold and a person can't sell unless he is involved. This not only includes those people who are interested in hunting and fishing but also those interested in beauty, he emphasized. More people go to look at wildlife than to hunt and fish. These people also must be sold and taught to sell the program.

Remaining on the subject of beauty, Dr. Shapiro warned not to forget the women of the state. Many times they can do more to promote a project and are more persistent in carrying a program out than men.

If the right things are done on the right land at the right time wildlife will survive, he concluded.

An AP News Analysis

Pope Paul Trying to Better Lot of Catholics Under Reds

BY TOM OCHILTREE

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI is understood to be studying ways of arranging with Communist governments to improve the lot of the 60 million Roman Catholics behind the Iron Curtain.

In his week-old reign, the pontiff has set the stage publicly for re-establishing Vatican ties with Communist nations. He has served notice that he has no intention of involving the Vatican in the internal affairs of nations, but he has indicated that he wants Catholics behind the Iron Curtain to regain the opportunity to practice their faith freely.

His approach, revealed in messages received Thursday in Moscow and Warsaw, is persuasion. The messages, addressed to Premier Khrushchev and Aleksander Sawadzki, titular head of the Polish government, acknowledged congratulations on the Pope's election. They expressed a wish for world peace.

Remind Communists They also reminded the Communist leaders that Christians live in their lands, especially in Poland, which has a 1,000-year history of Catholicism.

The Pope's message to Zawadzki—the first known communication from a Pope to the Communist government of Poland—noted that the Pope's greetings came from "a country with which we have been tied for a long time with old and dear remembrances and for which we desire with all our heart divine care."

Khrushchev's message, the pontiff wrote, "awakens in our soul the memory of the Russian people, their secular and Christian history."

Pope Paul reportedly is more interested in repairing bonds disrupted after World War II than in keeping alive old conflicts with Communists.

Following Policies

In this he is following policies initiated by Pope John XXIII, who sought to get Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty to leave the U.S. legation in Budapest and come to the Vatican in exchange for a relaxation of the Hungarian government's restrictions on the church.

1-Man Space Scooter Designed for Crater Hopping on Moon

DOWNEY, Calif. (AP) — An aerospace firm has come up with something it calls a space scooter, a one-man platform with hand-levers designed for crater hopping and crag climbing on the moon.

It's steered by balance, like a surfboard. Lean in the direction you want to go, and you do. North American Aviation envisions a model, powered by jets of storable liquid propellants, which would carry a man quickly over rough lunar terrain, hovering or soaring as necessary.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry St. Louis, was blown off. Extent of the damage was not determined.

The telephone company in Chilton reported that "near-tornado" winds knocked down five company poles and three trees along a half-mile stretch along Hickory Hills Road northwest of the city.

Disrupts Service

Two other poles were taken down in the same general area. The damage caused disruption in service for about three hours while new poles were set up. Lightning struck a gasoline pump at a service station owned by Alfred Knitt causing the pump to go up in flames.

The same bolt of lightning apparently blew out the television set in the Lyle Paschall home next door to the service station. Paschall's telephone, his neighbor's and many others were out of order, but someone was able to call the Chilton fire department, which put out the flames.

Flooded Basements

There was no damage greater than flooded basements in Little Chute and Kimberly, but in Kaukauna the rains acted as a settling agent at recent diggings at Gertrude Street and Wisconsin Avenue and in the 500 block of W. Eighth Street.

Three man-hole covers in the city were opened when mains flooded and backed up.

A new warrant was issued and he was convicted and sentenced to state prison in Waupun. He served six months and was paroled.

3 Injured in 2-Car Accident

Three Appleton youths were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital after an accident at College Avenue and Lave Street shortly before 5 p.m. Thursday.

Injured were Gale Vanderheiden, 15, 907 Ridge Lane, her brother, Paul Vanderheiden, 17, and Barbara Riley, 11, 817 Ridge Lane. The three were taken to the hospital by Larry's Ambulance and treated for shock and bruises. Miss Riley received a broken nose.

The accident occurred, police said, as the Vanderheiden car, driven by Paul Vanderheiden, slowed down for an arterial stop during a heavy rain storm. The car bumped into another car already stopped at the intersection. No one was injured in the other vehicle.

Kaukauna City Hall which served a two-way fire department radio, burning it out. The Outagamie County Highway Department reported that there was flooding on U.S. 10 about two miles west of U.S. 45 in the underpass one mile west of Appleton. Traffic was slowed, but not stopped, while workers cleared away debris blocking drains.

Hail was reported in Madison, Wausau and Green Bay, while a plane pilot reported sighting a tornado 15 miles north of Devils Lake. Madison clocked winds at 62 m.p.h., the Associated Press reported.

The heaviest amount of rainfall reported was 3.92 inches at Wausau. That included 2.75 inches in one hour early Thursday afternoon.

Other rainfall amounts in the 24-hour period ended shortly after daybreak today included 1.40 at Green Bay, 1.27 at Mequon, 1.23 at Madison, .78 in downtown Milwaukee, .72 at Eau Claire, .53 at Racine, and .35 in the Beloit-Rockford area.

Fire touched off by lightning destroyed a machine shed on the Catherine Kloehn farm near Germantown. The shed and machinery stored in it were valued at several thousand dollars.

Congressmen Hail Acclaim of Kennedy

GOP Doubts Final Effects Of Journey

BY C. YATES MCDANIEL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The acclaim given President Kennedy in Europe was welcomed by congressional leaders today, but Republicans cautioned against weighing the lasting success of the trip until all the results are in—particularly from France.

House Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., voiced the general Democratic feeling that the President's tour had made "a profound impression conducive to furthering the national interests of our country and those of Europe."

The assistant Democratic leader of the Senate, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, saw the President's trip as "vindication of all the doubts and dire predictions that assailed him before his departure."

Humphrey said he considered the Kennedy restatements of U.S. policy "direct answers to the most damaging arguments" of President Charles de Gaulle of France.

Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois agreed that the President had been "welcomed with open arms and listened to in Germany as the President of the United States should have been."

Dirksen said he hoped that "good results will flow" from the trip, but warned against speculating on the President's success in "trying to patch up certain situations."

No Quarrel

House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana said he had no quarrel with the trip, was happy about the acclaim and wished the President "every possible success that is in the cards."

Halleck sounded a warning that developed into sharper criticism by two Republican members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Halleck thought that the "recognition of friendship" given the President in Germany "could be important," but he doubted that "the President has added much to our relations with France."

Rep. Frances P. Bolton of Ohio, the ranking Republican member of the foreign affairs committee, said she considered the President's statements about France and de Gaulle "the poorest politics I have seen played by a man who is supposed to know his politics."

Mrs. Bolton said such public criticism "was no way to re-win a friend, and we certainly don't need any more enemies."

French Relations

Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen Jr., R-N.J., also a foreign affairs committee member, said he thought that the "great impression made abroad" by the President's restatement of policy had "unquestionably exacerbated our relations with France."

Rep. Clement Zablocki of Wisconsin, second ranking Democratic member of the committee, said that as a result of Kennedy's trip the allies may have a better "understanding that they have a contribution to make."

The chairman of the House Republican Conference, Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, said his party approves "anything that will strengthen the NATO alliance."

But Ford said he was "not sure that what the President has said and done will accomplish this. We need more time to analyze the results and reach a sound appraisal."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in a speech Thursday night to young Republicans at San Francisco, said of Kennedy's European

H. C. Lodge to Work For John Kennedy

President Names Republican as Ambassador to South Viet Nam

BY BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP)—Let no one doubt that politics makes strange bedfellows: Henry Cabot Lodge is going to work for John F. Kennedy.

A family rivalry that dates back 47 years has been stored in the attack with announcement by the President Thursday that he has picked Lodge as ambassador to South Viet Nam.

Eleven years ago Kennedy vaulted into national prominence by taking Lodge's Senate seat. Three years ago they were exchanging political pot shots; Kennedy as the Democratic candidate for president, Lodge as the GOP's vice presidential choice.

A year ago, the battling branched farther out on the family tree as the President's young est brother, Edward, defeated Lodge's son, George, for the same Senate seat from Massachusetts. The feuding and fussing between the Lodges and the Kennedy clan began in 1916 when Lodge's aristocratic grandfather and namesake, Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, beat back the challenge of John F. Fitzgerald, Kennedy's maternal grandfather.

Although he bears the same name and party label as his grandfather, Henry Cabot Lodge is cut from entirely different political cloth. The elder Lodge was an isolationist and a conservative; the younger is international-

Utah Executive Named Head of U. S. Jaycees

Dick Headlee Picked On Fifth Ballot at National Meeting

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Dick Headlee, 32, of Bountiful, Utah, was elected president of the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce early today after six hours of balloting.

Headlee, an account executive with the Burroughs Corp., succeeds Doug Blankenship of College Park, Ga. Headlee, his wife, Mary, and their seven children will move to the "Jaycee White House" in Tulsa, Okla., for the next year.

Headlee's election came on the fifth ballot in the election that climaxed the Jaycees' National Convention.

Quits Race

Johnny Davis, 35, Miami Shores, Fla., attorney, withdrew from the race Thursday. All five presidential candidates were vice presidents during the past year.

Elected vice presidents for one year were Warren Polash, 32, Buffalo, N.Y.; Dean Gordon, 30, Monticello, Ill.; Stan Ladley, 32, Bartlesville, Okla.; Eric Schmidt, 30, Denver; Don Brown, 31, Omaha, Neb.; Bruce Kallos, 28, Seaford, Del.; Ken Osterberger, 33, Baton Rouge, La.; Ernie Lewis, 34, Pleasant Hill, Calif.; Ron O'Brien, 34, Fairfield, Iowa; and Richard McJilton, 34, Baltimore.

Profumo Summoned To Court for Speeding

BRENTWOOD, England (AP)—Former War Minister John D. Profumo, central figure in Britain's political-sex scandal, is to be in court next Wednesday to answer a summons for speeding.

Henry Cabot Lodge

mindful and a member of the GOP's liberal wing.

Lodge was elected to the senate in 1936, but resigned his seat to join the Army when America entered World War II. He came back with six battle stars, four decorations and the oak leaves of a lieutenant colonel.

After Kennedy's election, Lodge was appointed ambassador to the United Nations by President Dwight D. Eisenhower. The handsome Bostonian served in the job eight years and proved he could negotiate with the Soviets as well as exchange verbal blows with them.

The 1960 campaign brought him back to the political wars as the second man on the GOP ticket headed by Richard M. Nixon. Along the political trail he swung hard at Kennedy, charging him with "shooting from the hip" on foreign policy statements and repeating what was to become Lodge's refrain: "The White House is no place for on-the-job training."

Lodge has been a general consultant to Time, Inc., and has served as director general of the Atlantic Institute, a private organization dedicated to strengthening democracy in Western Europe.

Lodge will be 61 Wednesday. He and his wife, the former Emily Esther Sears, have two sons, George Cabot and Henry Sears.

It said Thursday no more than 158,400 acres would be planted by June 30, only 39 per cent of the normal acreage.

Hoy blamed the "slow use of new systems which means difficulties for the plans developed by the party and revolutionary government."

Pastor Who Pushed Integration In His Church Asked to Quit

BY GEORGIE ANN GEYER

CHICAGO (Daily News Service)—A Chicago pastor who pushed integration in a changing neighborhood has been asked to resign by trustees of his church.

The congregation of the Avalon Park Community Church, on Chicago's south side, will vote Tuesday, July 2, whether to retain the Rev. A. Hugh Anwyl, who has served as pastor since September, 1960.

The church's trustees passed a resolution last Thursday saying that "in the opinion of the board of trustees it would be in the best interests of the church that the minister resign."

Twenty-six members then called for a meeting of the congregation, the only body who can ask a pastor to resign. "For the purpose of considering the termination of the pastor's arrangement with the church."

No Reason Given
"They haven't specified any reason," said the Rev. Anwyl, 33, a minister of the British United Church of Christ. "To speculate on my part would be pointless at this time."

The request for his resignation came at the same time he was calling a meeting of the congregation for July 14 to vote on a new program for the church for the coming year, he said.

The program called upon the congregation, among other things, to hire Negro assistants in the church and a Negro assistant secretary in the office.

Pushes Integration
"I took the position that if the program was rejected, I would consider it a vote of no confidence and leave," the Rev. Anwyl said. "There is no question that I have been strongly pushing for an integrated church, and many felt I was going at integration too fast."

Church members refused to comment on the situation. The church already has one Negro member, who was admitted June 2, as well as Japanese and Cuban members. Last January it went on record as having an open policy with regard to race of members, but the congregation at that time did not approve the Rev. Anwyl's action program of implementing integration.

At a meeting Tuesday in St. Francis DePaul Church, the Chatham-Grand Crossing Ministerial Assn., representing 16 churches in the surrounding neighborhoods, called upon the Avalon Park church to retain the Rev. Anwyl because:

Comments Dedication
"The proposed action would seriously hinder the steps toward racial harmony and integration in the entire southeastern area of Chicago."

The statement commended the faithful dedication the Rev. Anwyl has shown to the best interests of your parish as your pastor and preacher. We declare our full unqualified confidence in his integrity, his honesty and character."

The church is in the middle of neighborhoods that have been changing racially for the last few years. It draws its membership largely from an area in which there are about 100 Negro families, the Rev. Anwyl said.

On Tuesday morning with Mr. Kennedy already in Germany, the Munich "voice" station announced its two hour "breakfast show" had broken down due to "technical difficulties."

The 95 directional antennae of the station were unable to relay the American interpretations of Mr. Kennedy's visit to relay stations in Tangiers, Munich, Salonika and Rhodes.

Breakdowns began just before the President's departure last week.

Haukedahl Case May Go to Jury Today After Summations

KENOSHA (AP)—Mrs. Helen Haukedahl wept and moaned as she testified in her first degree murder trial about events at her final meeting with the woman she is accused of slaying.

The appearance on the witness stand by the 46-year-old estranged wife of Kenosha's former police chief completed testimony and the case was expected to go to a jury of nine housewives and three men after final arguments today.

Mrs. Haukedahl has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity in the April 1 shooting of Mrs. Dorothy Bitautis, a pretty 46-year-old widow who was a police department stenographer.

"She was breaking up my home," said Mrs. Haukedahl, separated from her husband, Stanley, who resigned in the face of an investigation of his personal life. "I wanted her to know how I felt."

"Must I? Must I?" whimpered she would feel if she were in my situation.

Al Luplow's Catch Saves Tribe's Win

BY MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

A glove, and a fist.

And, in the fury of the American League pennant chase, the spotlight glares sharply on Al Luplow and Vic Power.

The glove belongs to Luplow, Cleveland outfielder who made a spectacular diving catch of Dick Williams' bid for a three-run homer in the eighth inning and preserved a 6-4 triumph over third-place Boston Thursday.

The fist belongs to Power, Minnesota first baseman who threw a punch at Detroit pitcher Phil Regan and was ejected from the game during a 10-6 triumph over the Tigers that moved the Twins to within three games of first-place New York.

The Chicago White Sox downed the Yankees 6-0 as Ray Herbert pitched a five-hitter for his sixth shutout and second over New York while pulling the White Sox to within eight percentage points of the front-runners.

East Rated Slight Favorite In All-America Tilt Saturday

West to Reply On Hoppmann's Strong Running

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The aerial-minded East goes against the power-loaded, ground hugging West Saturday night in the third annual All-America football game.

The East, on the strength of a heavier line and the Rose Bowl pass-catch team of Ron Vanderkelen and Pat Richter from Wisconsin was picked by some observers as the slight favorite.

The West was not worried, however. It had a couple of great running backs in Iowa Elate's Dave Hoppmann, who led the nation in total yards gained in 1961, and Kermit Alexander, one of UCLA's best all-around backs.

The Vanderkelen-Richter duo nearly upset unbeaten Southern California in the Rose Bowl last New Year's Day. Bill Nelsen of Southern Cal will call signals for the West.

Averages 245 Pounds

The East line, averaging 245 pounds, includes Michigan State's Dave Behrman, a 265-pound guard. Rounding out the line, in addition to Richter, are: Bob Vogel and Daryl Sanders, an Ohio State pair weighing more than 500 pounds together; center Dennis Gaubatz of Louisiana State, 220; tackle Art Gregory of Duke, 220; and end Tom Hutchinson of Kentucky, 200.

Starting with Vanderkelen in the backfield will be John Mackey of Syracuse. Billy Gambrell of

Spahn, Koufax Duel Tonight In Los Angeles

Milwaukee Takes 16-1 Beating From Denver Farm Club

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Milwaukee returns to National League action tonight, meeting no less than the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers — and the Braves might be glad.

They stopped off in Denver Thursday night for an exhibition with their Pacific Coast affiliate and took a 16-1 licking from the farm hands who collected 17 hits at the expense of the Milwaukee bullpen crew.

Frank Funk started and was followed by Dan Schneider, Hank Fischer, Ron Piche and Bob Sadowski. Most of the damage was done against Funk and Schneider.

The Braves were stopped on five hits by lefty Dick Kelley who fanned six and walked only two in going the distance.

Milwaukee scored its only run in the fourth on Joe Torre's double and a single by Denis Menke. The other Braves' hits were singles by Hank Aaron and Gene Oliver and a triple by Roy McMillan after two were out in the seventh.

Woodward Stars

Denver had all kinds of stars, chief among them former Florida State shortstop Woody Woodward, a 20-year-old $50,000 bonus baby, who had four hits, drove in five runs and was great defensively.

Right fielder Chico Salmon also was a smash at the plate with four hits in five trips and four runs driven in.

The Bears took a quick lead when J. W. Porter blasted Funk's second pitch over the fence and Steve Demeler followed by doing the same. Woodward added a third Denver homer later.

A crowd of 11,145 watched the farm hands have a field day.

Deals Off 50 Per Cent

NFL Owners Are More Cautious About Trades

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League owners are playing it close to the vest in the player mart with trading off at most 50 per cent from last year's pace.

At the end of June, the clubs had made only 12 deals involving 21 players in 1963 as compared to 20 trades involving 39 players a year ago, the NFL pointed out today.

One reason for the caution could be the fact that trades often have resulted in championship clubs to the embarrassment of the team that let the players go. In the last five years, the 10 conference champions (five in each conference) have averaged 11.6 players each acquired through trading, or about one-third of the squad.

The 1962 New York Giants, for instance, had 15 players or nearly half the active roster made up of players picked up in trades.

The Eastern Conference teams have been much busier than the Western Conference in the trade market with Dallas and Cleveland the most active. In fact, the seven Western teams have acquired a total of only five players

Phillies' Ray Culp Wins 10th Game

Sets Rookie Pace by Hurling 13-4 Win Over Pittsburgh

BY MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ray Culp, Philadelphia's $100,000 bonus right-hander who had a losing minor league record, is halfway home in his bid to become the first rookie pitcher since 1918 to enter the 20-victory circle in the National League.

The top rookie winner among a talented crop of young pitchers, the 21-year-old Culp won No. 10 Thursday night as the Phillies pounded out 18 hits and clobbered Pittsburgh 13-4 in the only game on the NL schedule.

If Culp continues at his pre-ent pace, he will have an excellent chance to become the first rookie 20-game winner since Larry Jansen of the New York Giants posted a 21-5 record in 1947. Bob Grim of the New York Yankees was the last American Leaguer to do it with a 20-6 mark in 1954.

Four Years Experience

Culp came to spring training with four years of professional experience behind him, a 27-35 minor league record and a 5.33 earned run average. But he had showed promise in 1962 at Williamsport of the Eastern League, where he was 13-8.

"I found myself at Williamsport," says Culp. "It just started coming on, and it carried over into this year."

And now the 6-foot, 280-pounder is the rookie sensation of the league with a 10-5 record and a classy 2.55 earned run average to go with seven complete games in 14 starts. He is No. 4 in strikeouts with 103.

Against the Pirates, Culp allowed only two hits for six innings but was touched for two and was given a rest by Manager Gene Mauch.

The Phillies, meanwhile, started off by tagging Don Cardwell, 8-9, and continued throughout the game, piling up 18 hits and their biggest run production of the season. The 18 hits tied the NL high for the season.

Hits for Cycle

Johnny Callison took hitting honors for Philadelphia, becoming the first player in either league to complete the single, double, triple, homer cycle this year. He tripled in the first inning and scored the first run, then followed with a three-run homer, a single and a run-producing double.

Clay Dalrymple also homered for the Phillies, but on the debit side of the ledger left fielder Tony Gonzalez committed his first error in 205 games, a major league record. The old mark was 199.

Everyone returns to action tonight as the tight pennant struggle continues with five teams within four games of the top spot. St. Louis leads, with Los Angeles one-half game back, San Francisco 1½ behind, Cincinnati three out and the Chicago Cubs four to the rear.

Tonight's headliner will be at San Francisco, where the fourth-place Reds will send Bob Purke, 2-4, against Juan (No. 11) Marichal, 12-3. The front-running Car-

Scott Fredericks hit a 2-run homer for Red Owl in a 6-5 win over Brett Schneider's Appletan Oil No. 2 win via a forfeit.

UCT won a pair of 1-hitters in the Erb Division. Tony Goehler fanned 11 as he stopped Breitenbach's, 2-0. George Ulmen whiffed 13 in a 1-0 victory over Unmuh's. Breitenbach's scored a 4-3 win over Peerless Paint No. 1 as Mark Catlin pitched a 2-hitter and Bob Griesbach socked two hits. Don Brinkman outdueled Tom Jones as the Police edged the Fox City Foxes, 2-0.

Jim Ellenbecker socked three hits as Sherry Motors beat Berggren's, 5-3, in the Roosevelt Division. Krambo beat Valley Ready Mix, 12-9, as Jim Harris struck out 15. Verrier - Schmidt pounded out an 11-3 win over Yellow Cab, with Steve Calloway getting a pair of hits. Neuman's Service beat Badger Printing, 11-6, as Jim Van Dyke slammed three hits.

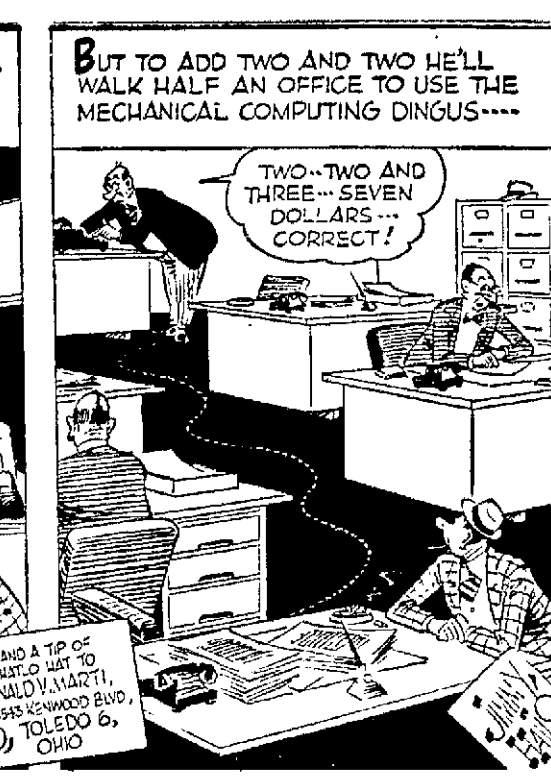

In the new "T" league, the Phoasants made 25 hits to beat the Cardinals, 23-4. The Orioles blanked the Parakeets in the final two innings to win, 25-13. In other games, the Starlings edged the Ravens, 17-16, and the Cranes beat the Thrushes, 20-19.

Wednesday that the league had signed 151 of the players it drafted last December.

Kensil said 65 others were "futures" whose original class had graduated but who still held college eligibility. Eight remained unsigned and 56 were signed by other leagues. A check of signings showed about 12 were signed by the Canadian League.

The NFL drafted 20 rounds by its 14 clubs for a total of 280 director of public relations for the players from last year's college National Football League, said crop.

Belinsky, 'Silent Partner' Attend Angel-Oriole Game

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Reports Ricky duPont, widow of Francis that Bo Belinsky has decided to report to the Los Angeles Angels' farm club in Hawaii came as a surprise to Angel General Manager Fred Haney.

"Belinsky hasn't been in touch with us," said Haney, who pointed out that the southpaw cannot play with any professional baseball team until and unless he gets permission from Los Angeles.

Belinsky was suspended by the Angels when he refused to report May 24 to Honolulu after posting a disappointing 1-7 record for Los Angeles.

Milwaukee's starter will be Warren Spahn, bidding for his 11th victory against three defeats. He'll be opposed by Sandy Koufax, 11-3.

There are certain statistics stacked against the Braves as they bid for a better place in the National League sun. They have a mediocre 13-18 road record and have won only five of 19 decisions against left-handers.

Pancho Gonzales Defiant After Defeat

Prestige Shattered, He Still Insists He Can Beat Anyone

BY JOE REICHLER

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—His old crown knocked askew, his prestige badly shattered and his game slowed to a walk, a badly beaten Pancho Gonzales insisted today he can still beat any tennis player alive.

"I'll play any one of them any day of the week, and I'll bet on myself," he said, after his stunning 10-8, 2-6, 6-0, 6-1, defeat at the hands of Peruvian Alex Olmedo in the first round of the U.S. Pro Tennis Championship at Forest Hills Stadium Thursday.

"I'm willing to play them any place, any time and for whatever they want—if they dare. And I'll guarantee the gate," he said.

Gonzales' show of defiance did not reflect his play against a younger and stronger Olmedo, who simply let the 5-year-old former tennis ruler run himself into the ground during the first two sets.

Legs Just Gave Out

"My legs just gave out on me," said Pancho sadly, as he attempted to explain his downfall.

"Every time I bent down I thought I would cave in. I hardly had the strength to straighten up in the last set."

Gonzales was making a comeback in a feud-flavored tournament, after 21 months on the sidelines. He was pro champion from 1954 to 1961.

Gonzales felt fine until late in the second set when he had to work extra hard to break Olmedo's service for 5-2 and then hold his own for the winning game.

The defeat of the old king was a blow to the 3,500 spectators, nearly all of them attracted on a scorching hot day by the colorful Californian of Mexican descent.

But Tony Trabert, director of the player combine that is feuding with Gonzales, was as happy as if he had been Pancho's conqueror instead of Olmedo.

Gonzales and the association have been fighting in public and in the courts over rival television shows and other matters. The association suspended Gonzales, and he filed suit against it.

"Gonzales has thorough heart," Trabert gloated. "And I enjoyed it very much. Particularly because of all the threats and boasts he has made."

Mullen Nine Stages Rally To Triumph

KAUKAUNA — Mullen Barbers (4-4) came from behind with two runs in the bottom of the seventh to edge Dick and Betty's Bar, 6-7, in City Softball League play Wednesday.

The losers jumped off to a 3-run lead in the first inning on a hit batsman, a walk, an error and a double by Tom Resch. Dick and Betty's added three runs in the third on four singles and two errors, but the winners matched the output in the bottom of the inning on a walk, an error and doubles by Jerry Vande Loo and Don Van Abel.

Mullen added a tally in the second on Gerry Meulemans' double and tied the game in the bottom of the sixth on two walks, an error, a single and a sacrifice fly. Dick and Betty's took the lead with a homer by George Anderson in the top of the final inning, but the winners came back to plate two runs on two errors, a walk and a single.

Cleveland Open Lead Shared By 3 Golfers

Gary Player, Eggers And Winger Fire Rounds of 66

CLEVELAND (AP)—They may not be up there at the finish, but two colorful newcomers to upper bracket golf are creating an early furor in the $110,000 Cleveland Open.

The upstarts are 30-year-old Bill Eggers of Henderson, Nev., and 29-year-old Clyde (Moon) Mullins of Indio, Calif., a transplant from Kentucky's hills. In three years on the tour neither has come close to winning a tournament.

Eggers, a smiling redhead, was married at 16, turned pro at 17, has four children, and rode a long-driving 19-year-old brassy to a rousing 5-under-par 66 in Thursday's opening round.

That tied him with South African Gary Player and Oklahoma City's Bo Winger for the top spot in the field of 150 shooting for the $22,000 first prize. Player has won $44,000 this year, Winger more than $13,000 and Eggers a mere $1,612, which hasn't come close to paying his expenses.

Tagging Along

Mullins learned to play golf in the mid-50s while in the Marines and never has finished better than eighth. He's wife and daughter are tagging along on the tour and for them he fired a 67 in the inaugural. He bogged two of the last three holes or he could have been off by himself.

Tied with Mullins were Dave Hill, the slim 26-year-old ex-caddie from Jackson, Mich., and Lionel Hebert of Lafayette, La., who won the last of the PGA match play titles in 1957.

Much of the highly-touted talent was further back, although it was still a tight race with 42 players breaking par and 27 others matching the card. After today's play, the field will be sliced to the low 25 for the last two rounds ending Sunday over Beechmont Country Club's 6,618-yard layout.

At 68 were such luminaries as Sam Snead, Jim Ferrier, Jack Nicklaus, Tony Lema and Mike Souchak as part of an eight-way tie. National Open champion Julius Boros was in an 11-man deadlock at 69, along with such standouts as Doug Ford, Jack Cupit, Bob Ganalby, Charles Siford and Art Wall Jr.

A stroke under par at 70 were 17 others. That list included Gene Littler, Billy Maxwell, Don January, Jack Fleck and Jay Hebert, all big tourney winners.

Arnold Palmer, who started as the favorite, birdied the last hole for a par 71 after losing four strokes on three consecutive back nine holes. Dow Finsterwald, George Bayer, Bob Roeburg, Gardner Dickinson and Jimmy Demaret were among the 26 who tied Palmer.

Ready Mix '9' Edges Shannon's In Makeup Tilt

Valley Ready Mix edged S. C. Shannon 3-2, in an International Industrial League makeup game Tuesday night.

Shannon's scored in the first inning and then were blanked the rest of the way by Ed Ulrich of the Ready Mix team. The winners managed only two hits off Ron Young.

In the National Industrial League, CWA nipped the Police Department with a run in the last of the seventh after the Police had tied the score in the top of the inning.

Henry Hupfaut was the winning hurler and Gosh took the loss. Phil Condu rapped a homer for the Police and Jerome Martin hit one for the winners.

Red Sox Place Gene Conley on Disabled List

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox placed veteran right-hander Gene Conley on the disabled list Thursday and recalled relief pitcher Hal Kofstad from their Seattle farm club.

Conley, 32, has been suffering from a variety of ills this year and has been inactive lately because of a shoulder injury. The 6-foot-8 pitcher, who plays professional basketball during the winter, has only a 2-4 record with Boston this season, starting seven times and failing to finish a game. His earned run average is 7.62.

er's first likely will wind up the subject of reports to AL President Joe Cronin.

Red Sox Manager Johnny Pesky didn't believe the unbelievable catch should have deprived Williams of a homer because the ball was caught in the bullpen, and played the game under protest. Umpire Joe Paparella ruled it a sacrifice fly, scoring Lu Clinton from third base.

Luplow, inserted into the lineup as a defensive replacement, started racing to his right as soon as Williams connected with the Ted Abernathy pitch, man meeting ball at the bullpen wall about 380 feet from home plate.

Luplow leaped into the air, speared the ball and at the same time tumbled over the five-foot bullpen wall and disappeared. A second later, wildly waving the glove—with the ball nestled in it—he reappeared.

Five homers were hit in the game, Jerry Kindall, Max Alvis and Gene Green connecting for the Indians in support of Barry and Russ Nixon homered for the Red Sox. Wilbur Wood, 0-4, took the loss.

Power took his poke at Regan, after the Tiger pitcher had walked in the fifth inning. Regan appeared to block the punch, but a short scuffling match followed, before the umpires intervened. Power was thrown out, and drew an automatic $50 fine.

A Mighty Swing
The Twins first baseman said the argument began in the fourth inning when he took a mighty swing at a Regan pitch.

"He tells me," said Power, "if I swing like that again he's going to throw the ball at my tail. I guess I swing too hard for him."

Regan said, "Power was leaning far over the plate trying to hit my breaking pitches. I told him 'don't do that or you're liable to get hit with a pitch.'"

Jimmy Hall and Harmon Killebrew cracked homers for the Twins while Killebrew, Rich Rollins and Zoilo Versalles each collected three hits in a 14-hit attack that made it easy for Jim Perry, 8-4. Terry Fox, 3-4, was the loser.

The White Sox jolted Jim Bouton, 10-3, for 10 hits in five innings and breezed behind Herbert, 8-4, to their fifth victory in six games with the Yankees this season. Chicago actually put it out of reach with a three-run first inning in which Floyd Robinson's single accounted for two runs.

Home runs by King and Zimmer, his first in the AL, gave Washington a 2-0 lead. Ed Brinkman singled home what turned out to be the decisive run in the sixth and Landrith added some insurance with his seventh inning homer. Norm Siehern homered for the A's. Bennie Daniels, 1-4, was the winner. Dave Wickham, 5-7, the loser.

Stocks Gain on Sleepy Market

Trading Slow, but Steady After Two Sessions of Decline

NEW YORK (AP)—Oils, motors, and sugars made gains in a sleepy stock market early this afternoon.

Trading was at the slowest pace in weeks but a steadier tone prevailed in Wall Street after two sessions of sharp decline.

Oils appeared to be attracting institutional demand, brokers said.

Big Three Ahead

Big Three motors were ahead fractionally. Steels clung narrowly to the upside. Rails were spotted but ahead on balance. Utilities eased.

The market was seen in a cautious mood. The extremely slow trading was attributed to the approach of the vacation season and the July 4 holiday next week.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 270.8 with industrials up .8, rails up .2, and utilities off .1.

Other Oils

Among other oils, Texaco, Royal Dutch, and Standard of Indiana all added fractions.

Recovers 2 Points

IBM recovered more than 2 points of recent losses, Polaroid more than a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .38 at 706.41. Prices were mixed in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Kaiser Steel Workers Share in $1 Million Saved by Automation

FONTANA, Calif. (AP)—In the month of May, automation saved $1,080,000 for the Kaiser Steel Corp. Because of this, the firm announced Thursday, 4,400 workers will share $339,000.

Kaiser and the United Steelworkers of America last year worked out a profit-sharing plan designed to offset the problems of automation. Under the scheme union employees get back 32.5 percent of any savings in steel production costs.

Goldwater's Campaign Organization Larger Than 1960's Kennedy Group

Not as Slick Professionally, Lacks Tough Political Spadework

BY JAMES MCCARTNEY
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) has a larger organization working for his nomination to the presidency in Washington now than John F. Kennedy had at the comparable time before the 1960 Democratic convention.

But it's not as slick an organization professionally — and it clearly hasn't done the kind of hard-knock political spadework that came to characterize the Kennedy operations.

Nevertheless, a seasoned political pro — a student, strangely enough, in the liberal Thomas E.

Dewey school of New York politics — is masterminding the Goldwater drive.

His is F. Clifton White, 45, a brainy New York "public affairs" counsel and former Cornell University professor, who in 1960 was the national chairman of the volunteers for Nixon-Lodge.

Plush Offices

He is now the director of the National Draft Goldwater Committee, which has set up headquarters in a plush, $1,000-a-month suite of offices in the high-rent section of fashionable Connecticut Avenue here.

White is the only bonafide pro in the Goldwater organization at the moment with experience in organizing a national campaign.

The headquarters now has a staff of eight full-time people and help from as many as 25 to 70 volunteers. Office space includes two huge rooms and six or seven smaller offices.

It is the only active political headquarters in town at the moment for a prospective 1964 nominee.

At the comparable time before the 1960 political nominating conventions the formal Kennedy organization occupied only three offices here in the Esso Building, at the foot of Capitol Hill, with five or six full-time employees.

Influential Democrats

The Kennedy workers, however, had been in business officially since February and by this time had compiled a massive list of 25,000 influential Democrats from coast to coast—a list that was the heart of their campaign.

Another top hand in the Goldwater drive is 38-year-old Peter O'Donnell Jr., a Texan with a reputation as "another Bobby Kennedy" because of his fondness for the importance of precinct-level political organization.

O'Donnell, who has an investment business in Dallas, entered politics on the precinct level in Dallas in 1956 and rose to handle the Dallas County campaign for Nixon-Lodge in 1960.

Dallas County amassed a whopping 60,000 plurality for the Nixon-Lodge ticket in the election—the largest Republican plurality to come from any metropolitan area in the country.

O'Donnell's work impressed Sen. John Tower (R-Tex.), a Goldwater-style conservative, who brought him to Washington as his first administrative assistant in 1961.

in charge of legislative matters, comprise the Goldwater inner circle.

Smith has the broadest political experience in the group and appears to be a savvy operator.

He was a Washington correspondent for all of the major wire services at one time or another and handled public relations for the Republican congressional campaign committee for several years before joining Goldwater 2½ years ago.

As a senator from a small state, Goldwater is not entitled to the kind of paid staff enjoyed by those from big states.

His total Senate staff is now 14 and his allowance for help is in the lowest category—those from states with under 3,000,000 population.

Big-state senators get a larger allowance for staff. Both Sens. Jacob Javits and Kenneth Keating of New York have more than 30 on their staffs.

Willard Johnson, Left, president of the Northside Advancement Association, discusses plans for a magic show in memory of Harry Houdini, with Walt Bode, president of the Wisconsin chapter of the Houdini Club, and Myrl Leedom and Stanley Smith, co-chairmen of advancement association's committee planning the show. The Houdini Club, a national organization of magicians, will hold its 25th annual convention Sept. 12 to 14 in Appleton, home town of the great magician. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Said Nothing New

Kennedy Boys Did Lot Of Talking This Week

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—This was a week in which the Kennedy brothers did a lot of talking to push their projects and, except for one blast by the President, carefully avoided irritations on both sides of the Atlantic.

But they hardly said anything new.

West Germans turned out by the millions to cheer President Kennedy, who made a number of speeches and held a news conference. Yet, his only departure from the usual was an assault on French President de Gaulle.

In Washington Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy spent a day explaining and urging the administration's civil rights program and, in the course of it, made a concession which was no surprise.

The President cut loose on de Gaulle for suggesting this country might not come to the defense of its allies if they were attacked. His rebuke was a challenge to de Gaulle's attempt to lead, or dominate, Europe.

After a couple of days of thinking it over, de Gaulle replied through his information minister that the French government never doubted Kennedy's determination to stand by Europe. But then he threw in the hook. No one can tell what Kennedy's successor will do.

De Gaulle Position

In this roundabout way de Gaulle got back to the very position which caused Kennedy to let go at him. Don't trust America to come to Europe's defense if the going gets rough.

The men, having gone this far, have the choice of laying off each other or going after each other. If they choose the latter it hardly can strengthen the alliance.

West German politicians have found it expedient to keep drumming up the hope that West Germany and Communist East Germany can be reunited, although they haven't been saying much about it lately.

And no wonder. After 18 years of separation such talk begins to sound unreal, even to the most hopeful Germans. Last month a poll of West Germans showed 15 per cent thought talks between the two Germanys would lead to much.

So Kennedy could be accused of neither pessimism nor weakness but only—as he himself said—of facing reality when he said he saw no early solution to a divided Germany. He held out hope for it some day.

The other main points in Kennedy's talks before the cheering millions in Germany, none of them new. He pledged again American determination to defend West Berlin and the allies. He plugged for a strong Atlantic partnership and a Common Market and he suggested the allies pay more of the bill for helping backward countries.

Good Will

The main purpose of his trip seemed to be to create as much good will for this country as he could. Judging by the crowds and their happy reactions, he succeeded admirably.

But as for solutions to the problems with and among the allies, none was expected before he left and, so far as can be seen, he neither offered any nor achieved any.

In this country, in a day of discussion with a House judiciary subcommittee, the attorney general defended the administration's civil rights bill, particularly its so far most controversial part.

This was the section calling upon Congress by law to ban business places from discriminating against Negroes. The way the administration laid it down practically every business place would be so banned.

It was pretty widely guessed the administration would make some concessions on this in order to placate the opposition and get most of the bill through.

The attorney general agreed to a concession that very small business places might be excluded from the ban and left free to discriminate. Trying to figure out where the ban begins and leaves off is going to be one of the hottest problems of 1963.

Phi Beta Kappa

O'Donnell, a lanky six-footer, has a top-grade education, with a master's degree from the highly-touted Wharton School of Finance at the University of Pennsylvania. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

White and O'Donnell are working hard now at the key job of trying to round up delegate support for Goldwater at the 1964 Republican national convention.

They are traveling the country, meeting Republicans, and at the same time trying to build a national organization with a Goldwater chairman in every state, congressional district and county.

O'Donnell says that a basic problem is a lack of funds necessary to build a first-class national organization. "We need a larger staff to work on such things as research, public relations and surveys," he says.

The Draft Goldwater Committee is actually only a part of the Goldwater organization, however. Another vital part is his Senate staff.

Here the two most important figures are Ted Kazy, a 34-year-old former sportswriter for the Phoenix Republic who is the senator's administrative assistant, and Tony Smith, 49, a long-time Washington newspaperman who is press secretary.

Inner Circle

Both are closer to Goldwater than those on the Draft Goldwater Committee and, along with William Seward, 33, his assistant

Newer Warheads May Help Rockets

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — To improve effectiveness of America's military rockets, engineers are experimenting with advance warhead designs.

Included in the testing are new protective materials with higher performance and lower cost, maneuverable nose cones to change target during descent or to avoid an antimissile missile, more effective decoy warheads to confuse enemy radar, and multiple warheads to enable a single rocket to strike two or more targets.

Korth Denies TFX Will be Inferior, Costlier Warplane

Navy Secretary's Testimony in Conflict With Service Witnesses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth established whether favoritism figured in award of the potentially huge contract to the General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex., Pentagon has settled for an inferior, costlier version of the TFX Co. of Seattle.

His testimony before the Senate investigations subcommittee was in direct conflict with that given previously by witnesses for the Air Force and Navy. The plane is intended for use by both services.

Goldwater Hits 'Corrupt Big City Machines'

Young Republicans Give GOP Senator Roaring Ovation

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Democratic party leaders are linked in a "cynical alliance" with "corrupt big city machines," Sen. Barry Goldwater has told warring Young Republicans at their national convention.

The Arizona conservative's speech to a cheering crowd of 3,000 Thursday night came after a day of bitter wrangling. More was in store today, the last day, when national officers and resolutions were to be decided.

Goldwater, obviously the favorite of the majority at the convention for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination, got a rousing ovation—complete with trim young girls clad in Goldwater sweat shirts.

Raps Liberals
Goldwater again insisted that he isn't running for anything except the U.S. Senate. Most of his talk was devoted to castigating modern liberals, whom he called "soft-shelled creatures."

These, he said, "are the reactionaries. They haven't had a new idea in 30 years."

Republicans, he said to applause, must bring the liberals "kicking and screaming into the 1960's."

Praising the liberals of 50 years ago, Goldwater contended "The politicians who have inherited the traditions of liberalism... are not liberals at all, but merely ambitious men who have become the captives of the big city machines." He cited Chicago, Philadelphia and New York.

He said the narrowness of "the modern liberal view has been that all problems are... essentially economic in character. This is the Marxist view and it has had a deep effect on the modern liberals in this country."

Trip Under Fire
President Kennedy's European trip also came under fire. Referring to the Ireland stop, Goldwater said, "I don't know what troubles they have... but we have a hell of a lot here and he ought to be here taking care of them."

Goldwater called Cuba "... in all probability a greater and more dangerous defeat than any we have suffered in any war. How many more defeats can we take? How much longer dare we keep a weak and indecisive national leadership?" he asked.

'Compromise' Tax Plan Teetering Near Failure

BY HARVEY BREUSCHER
MADISON (AP) — A compromise proposal to break Wisconsin's political deadlock on a new state budget and balance taxes was dangerously close today to being printed on paper.

State Senate votes on two revenue-cutting amendments were the points on which the measure teetered. And only an overnight change of heart could keep one of the amendments from being solidly attached to the bill.

The political point of no return was reached on the budget-tax measure Thursday when the GOP-controlled Senate voted 19-14 to take $9 million from the proposal's new revenue section and pay it out as property tax relief to public utilities.

Chances Dim
Democratic minority and Republicans instrumental in reaching the compromise with Gov. John W. Reynolds were quick to forecast that the shift in funds could kill chances of enactment.

Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, whose battle for the compromise has been lauded by minority members of the house, appealed for reconsideration and an overnight delay in the vote.

"Search your souls and come back tomorrow morning and maybe we can still save this thing," Hollander pleaded.

The appeal was heard, and the motion carried, 18-13.

State Lawmakers Considering New Redistricting Plan
MADISON (AP)—Even as the Wisconsin Supreme Court was scheduled to hear arguments today on reapportionment of state legislative districts, some lawmakers were considering a new proposal.

Ronald Day, special counsel for Gov. John W. Reynolds, has prepared a request asking the high court to take jurisdiction and order reapportionment of Assembly and Senate districts.

The Democratic governor has threatened a veto of the Republican plan approved by the Legislature. Among other things it would keep Milwaukee County's number of Assembly seats at 24, while the governor said the county is entitled to 26.

The plan being studied was prepared by H. Rupert Theobald, reference and research coordinator for the legislative reference library. A few Republicans and Democrats have kept in contact on the plan, but all have been hesitant to talk about it because of the court case and the threatened veto.

Theobald's plan centers on the distribution of the seats in Milwaukee County.

that the compromise would die because of the $9 million shift. "We're reaching a point where this has just about become a Republican tax bill," said Stalbaum. "Pass this benefit for utilities and a cut in the bank tax and you can find your votes for passage of the bill among Republicans because Democrats won't vote for it."

Bank Tax Cut
The bank tax cut to which Stalbaum referred is pending in another amendment. It would hold a franchise levy on banks and savings and loan institutions at about $1.5 million in the biennium instead of $2.7 million as originally proposed.

Proxmire Assails Kennedy Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said in a Senate speech Thursday he was opposed to President Kennedy's tax cut proposals because the 1960 Democratic platform promised a balanced budget and it could not be balanced if taxes were reduced.

Proxmire said that the nation will have an $8 billion deficit this year and expects to increase spending by more than $4 billion next year.

"We can not have a balanced budget if we reduce taxes," he said.

Khrushchev, Red Leaders In E. Berlin

Meeting Described As a 'Surprise Summit Conference'

BERLIN (AP)—Premier Khrushchev arrived today in East Berlin for a surprise summit meeting with leaders of Soviet bloc nations.

Khrushchev was accompanied by his wife, Nina, but reports from Moscow made no mention of Soviet spokeswoman Valentina Tereshkova. Rumors have been persistent that he would bring her along in an effort to whip up something like the public enthusiasm that greeted President Kennedy in West Berlin.

Following Khrushchev into Berlin were Polish party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka and Czechoslovak President Antonin Novotny.

Other satellite leaders are expected to assemble in East Berlin by Sunday, the 70th birthday of East German Communist party boss Walter Ulbricht.

Official Pretext
Ulbricht's birthday is the official pretext for the gathering. But it is the first time Khrushchev has left home to attend a birthday party for a satellite leader, and Western officials in Berlin are convinced there is much more to the trip than that.

The announcement that Gomulka and Novotny also were coming produced a revision of earlier Western speculation that Khrushchev's visit was mainly a propaganda move intended to blunt the impact of President Kennedy's jubilant reception in West Berlin two days ago.

The Soviet and Chinese Communist parties open talks in Moscow July 5 on their bitter dispute over the policy the Communist countries should pursue in their relations with the rest of the world. Red Chinese leaders have marshaled public support for their

Rev. A. D. King Leads Small But Persistent Protest Crowd

BELOIT (AP)—Negroes, supported by a handful of whites and Southern integrationist leader, staged a faltering but persistent rally Thursday and won promises for consideration for their complaints of discrimination in housing and employment.

"The city council will give serious consideration to the petition received tonight," Council President Robert E. Tilley told a crowd of about 200 gathered at the city hall steps Thursday night. "We feel we represent all of the people of Beloit."

A brief address by the Rev. A. D. King, Birmingham, Ala., integration leader and brother of Dr. Martin Luther King, and a prayer brought the demonstration to a close. It was entirely peaceful since its morning beginning.

Woman's Fears Realized

BY JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP)—"Look into his eyes and you will see how scheming and dishonest he is. Woe to Germany if this man gains power."

Germany's famous woman Communist, the late Klara Zetkin, was talking about Walter Ulbricht when she made the statement in the 1920s.

Ulbricht had just completed his first hatchet job for Stalin. Germany's Communist party had been so big and independent, Ulbricht chopped it into cells which Moscow could control easily and tin J. O'Connor, formerly of the North American Pontifical College.

After the private audience, the Pope also received Mrs. Nixon and the Nixon's daughters, Patricia, 17, and Julie, 14.

The Nixons arrived Thursday from Athens on a private visit. They will remain here through in the uniform of a Soviet army July 3, and then visit Florence and Venice.

Since then, the spade-bearded former cabinetmaker has risen to become the boss of the East German Communist party and the dictator of East Germany.

Sunday, Ulbricht celebrates his 70th birthday and Khrushchev will be in East Berlin for the event. At least the Communists say that is the purpose of Khrushchev's visit.

It is no secret in the West that Khrushchev is more than unhappy with Ulbricht, who rules 17 million Germans with the terror tactics of Stalin.

Many Failures
Since 1953, when the East Germans revolted unsuccessfully and surged through the country crying "death to the spade beard," the Ulbricht regime has registered nothing but failures. Heavy industry was built rapidly but production never reached government goals. Collectivized farms have failed to provide enough food to do away with rationing.

Khrushchev may fear that grumbling among East Germans could become something more serious because of President Ken-

Irish Solons Cheer Kennedy

Parliament Hears U. S. President Praise Ireland

DUBLIN (AP)—To great applause and cheers, President Kennedy told members of the Irish Parliament today they represent a free country—and that is why he feels at home in Ireland.

The Dail, formed out of centuries of struggle, opened its doors—and its heart—to the U.S. President who is the great-grandson of an Irish emigrant.

Kennedy came here after a second barnstorming tour around the Irish countryside during which he received the freedom of Cork and another mighty welcome from Irishmen.

A roar of applause and cheering burst out as the President strode into the Dail chamber to address a joint session.

Unique Occasion
Dail Speaker Patrick Hogan declared: "It is an occasion unique as an event in Irish history—it is an international gesture of kindness and goodwill."

Kennedy told the Dail that the free Ireland of today has a future "as promising as your past is proud" in the role of "a maker and shaper of world peace."

He said he feels "at home" in Ireland—"no longer a country of persecution, political or religious."

"It is a free country and that, too, is why I feel at home."

Kennedy called on other nations to imitate the way the Irish won their independence.

"New nations can build with their former governing powers the same kind of fruitful relationship with Great Britain," the President said "a relationship founded on equality and mutual interests."

'Heroic Deeds'
He told his audience that "the heroic deeds," the most enduring literature have emerged from the small nations of the world.

"Ireland has already set a stan-

School Boards Across America Are Perplexed

High Court Failed To Spell Out Its Ruling on Prayer

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — A prominent United States Senator was telling his friends this story the other day:

"A public school teacher who entered her classroom after luncheon a few days ago saw a group of small boys kneeling on the floor and huddled together. She asked: 'What are you doing?' 'We're just shooting dice,' was the reply."

"Oh," said the teacher with a sigh of relief. "That's all right. I was afraid you were engaged in prayer."

Eleven days have passed since the Supreme Court of the United States issued its 8-10-1 decision proclaiming that prayer in the school room, whether voluntary or not, is forbidden by the constitution. Yet the school authorities throughout the country who have sought an explanation of what is or is not permissible have not found the answer.

Flag Pledge Remains

In the District of Columbia, for instance, the school board, which would like very much to elevate the moral standards of its pupils, finds itself virtually checkmated when the subject of religion is introduced. In deference to the high court, the board has eliminated the exercises in which readings from the Bible had been carried on for years in the classrooms. But the pledge of allegiance to the flag, which by act of Congress contains the phrase "one nation under God," was left in the routine. Colonel West A. Hamilton, a member of the board, asked certain questions which were referred to the corporation counsel for reply. One question was as follows:

"May students spontaneously engage in devotional services on their own without direction or guidance from the teacher?"

It was also asked whether the court decision prohibits the holding of school assemblies at which Christmas carols and Easter hymns are sung, and whether clergymen can pronounce the benediction at commencement exercises. Another query was this: "What would be the practical effect if a considerable number of parents demand that time be made available for their children to attend a brief religious service outside the school?"

Another member wanted to know if "silent meditation" is permissible.

All these queries indicate the scope of the uncertainty that prevails today. For, while New York state has a law which specifies that "released time" may be used to permit students to go to religious exercises outside the school, and the Supreme Court of the United States has upheld such a practice, doubts have been raised now because of the comments in the latest ruling of the high court on June 17.

Must Be Neutral

The court emphasized then that the state government must be "neutral" and that it could not sanction voluntary prayer in the school room and allow students who didn't want to participate to leave the room. The majority

Youth Pursuits in Days of Yore Required Patience, Ideas Galore

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

We used to make things. Oh how we used to make things! But the days were of the pre-television variety and the competition was not Perry Mason, but the elements. If it rained, we stayed home and "made stuff" and when the sun shone, we wandered around proudly with our new-made toys.

Often we would make our own baseballs. A black stocking stuffed with rags and sewed tightly into some semblance of roundness. It was pretty good for playing "ketch" and Annie-Annie-Over as well as a variety of other games.

It may seem strange now, but we really did make a crude version of a television set, or at least a motion picture projector. Here's how:

House

First we could clip the funnies and we would paste the strips "film". We would then roll the long stream around a smooth stick or a proper sized clothes pin or anything cylindrical. Two of the cylindrical devices were needed. We would glue or paste one end of the film to one of them and wind it up, leaving only a short end of the other end of the "film." That end would be glued to the other cylinder.

Now we would affix the cylinders into a cardboard shoe box—the cylinders inserted near the end of the box, one on each side. We would fasten the cylinders in the box with wire so they could be held snugly but still roll. Just above the "film roll" we cut a small slit or hole in the top of the box so that it would admit light into the dark box and make the film easy to see.

At the other end of the box we cut a small peep-hole. Then, as one peeped into the hole, we would turn the cylindrical spools so the viewer could see opinion mentioned that the father of a student in one of the cases before the court had decided against asking to have his children leave the school temporarily "for several reasons, including his belief that the children's relationships with their teachers and classmates would be adversely affected."

Justice Potter Stewart of the Supreme Court, who dissented, said he thought this was flimsy and didn't consider it convincing evidence of the effect of such a step. Nor is any light shed in a lengthy opinion by Justice Brennan, who, though he "concurred" with the court's decision, expressed himself in a paragraph which should give school boards plenty of mental, if not religious, exercise. He said:

"We do not, however, in my view usurp the jurisdiction of school administrators by holding as we do today that morning devotional exercises in any form are constitutionally invalid. But there is no occasion now to go further, and anticipate problems we cannot judge with the material now before us. Any attempt to impose rigid limits upon the mention of God or references to the Bible in the classroom would be fraught with dangers."

Justice Brennan quoted with approval a previous decision of the high court which said the constitution does not "ban federal or state regulation of conduct whose reason or effect merely happens to coincide or harmonize with the tenets of some or all religions." He then added:

Motto of Nation

"This rationale suggests that the use of the motto 'In God We Trust' on currency, on documents, and public buildings and the like may not offend the clause (in the constitution respecting an establishment of religion). For I suspect there would be intense opposition to the abandonment of that motto. The truth is that we have simply interwoven the motto so deeply into the fabric of our civil policy that its present use may well not present that type of involvement which the First Amendment prohibits."

But Justice Brennan evidently forgot that the petitioners in one of the two cases before the court were avowed atheists. They don't believe in God and, if the effect on them or their children is to be considered, then maybe the motto may have to be taken off the currency and coins. It's just an example of the "involvement" in perplexity which the Supreme Court's decision has brought to the school boards of the country. (Copyright, 1963) from last Sunday's comic section together in a long stream of the show, one panel at a time. Admission—one marble or some pins.

Another shoe box show was easier to make but it was not a real film with changeable scenes. It was pretty, though! We cut out funny paper characters individually and backed them with light cardboard so they could stand up. We pasted or glued these on the floor of a shoe box so they would stand erect and, somehow, tell a simple story in one panoramic scene with each character blended, somehow, into the "story."

Imaginative

Now we would cut out a fairly large oblong piece from the top of the box. Over this (from the bottom of the cover), we would paste a piece of tissue paper through which light or sunshine could pass. Then we put the cover back on the box and cut a peep-hole at one end of the shoe box. Lo, before the viewer lay a pretty, and an imaginative scene. Some kids used a lighted candle to achieve light, but all of them charged admission—marbles or jacks or pins, or whatever.

We also made a "drop box"—I think that is what we called it. It was simply a cigar box with a little round hole cut into its top. We roved the neighborhood offering chances. The object was to drop marbles from belt-high into the hole in the top of the box. If a kid got a marble into the hole, he would get five marbles payment. But the owner of the box kept all the marbles that didn't fall into the box.

Do parents remember the wonderful little "tractors" we could make with a spool, a piece of wax, a wooden match stick and a rubber band? Cut notches in the wheels of the spool, string a rubber band through the hole in the spool and string it through a piece of wax (or soap) and fasten one end of the band with a small bit of match stick. Then at the waxed end, we looped the band around the full match stick and turned it tightly. The small automation would crawl over the ground and obstacles and it gave us much joy.

Willow whistles were fun to make and took a little skill and practice to get a good one. They worked best in the spring when the sap was running, but could be made any time with a little care.

We chose a straight, smooth shoot about nine inches long and less than an inch thick. It must have neither flaw, knot nor curve.

Now we cut one end in a sloping cut. Near it, but above the bottom of the cut we cut a small notch about a half inch from the end. About three inches from the other end we cut a ring all the way around the shoot and deep enough to reach the wood through the bark. Those three inches represented the handle.

Roll, Soak, Pound

Now, with the back of our pocket knife, we gently hammered the six inches of the shoot with the notch and the slanted cut. We rolled it between boards, we soaked it in water and worked it and pounded it until the green bark could be slipped off without damage. (The clean stem exposed when the bark slipped off is probably the source of the phrase "clean as a whistle.")

With the wood exposed, we carved out a segment of the willow wood from the notch to a point about an inch and a half away from it. We also cut a small bit of wood from the top of the shoot from the point of the blow-hole (the slanted cut) to the notch. Then we slipped the bark back on the shoot and we had a wonderful whistle.

At our house the kids took pleasure in making their own napkin rings. An easy job, they were nevertheless a source of much pride.

We cut a limb about two and one-half inches in diameter from a birch tree or any soft wood. We sliced this into sections each one about an inch long. Then we cut out the center part, or drilled it out and carefully whittled out everything but the sapwood.

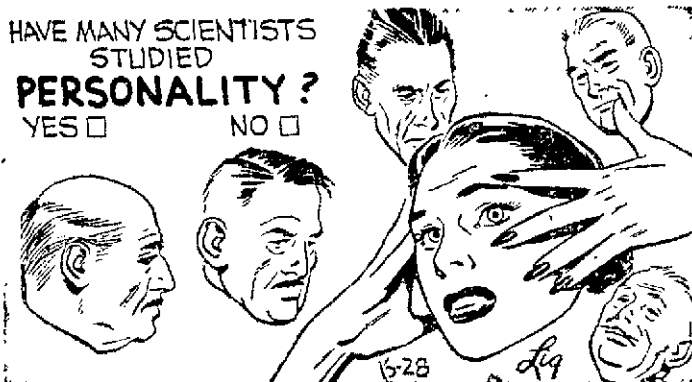

Next we cut our initials or a design into the bark and cut the rest of the bark away, leaving the design to stand out in rough relief. The wood must be sanded and oiled and polished and it can become a beautiful ring which can last for many years.

Now — all set? Let's go watch Perry Mason.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph. D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph. D.

HAVE MANY SCIENTISTS STUDIED PERSONALITY? YES ☐ NO ☐

No, says psychologist Gordon Allport of Harvard. They usually study only those aspects of personality that can be handled statistically. These are compared with "averages" and with differences in other people. But few scientists have yet attempted to see how the various aspects of personality fit together in the same individual to produce a particular personality.

In life, it is the doers, not the men of words, who count.

True — False — False. Men are moved to action, mainly by ideas, and these ideas are transmitted by words. Washington said that Thomas Paine's one little pamphlet, 'Common Sense," was worth a whole army of soldiers. Our "Declaration of Independence," Julia Ward Howe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address" all illustrate the tremendous power of words. Human beings live largely in a world of words. The greatest power lies with those who can use these words most effectively. (Copyright, 1963)

Couple Injured When Car Hits Parked Vehicle

Chilton Man, Wife Receive Cuts; Auto Damaged Badly

CHILTON—A Chilton man and his wife were injured when the car driven by their son struck a parked car in Hayton, east of here, about 10:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Carl Schley, 80, route 4, Chilton, and his wife, 76, are being treated at Calumet Memorial Hospital where their condition has been reported as good. Schley received shoulder injuries and facial lacerations. Mrs. Schley received lacerations on the chin.

They were passengers in a car driven by Ormie Schley, 53, route 4, Chilton, when it crashed into the rear of a parked car owned by Anton Buhl, route 4, Chilton. The impact shoved the Buhl car into the rear of another parked car owned by Herman Seipel, route 4, Chilton. The Schley vehicle was damaged extensively, police said.

Schley told police he was traveling west and said he probably fell asleep.

Elsie M. Kirvan, 46, route 1, Menasha, told a state patrolman that she swerved to avoid hitting another car when the vehicle she was driving left U.S. 10 at the Mantowoc Road intersection just south of Appleton.

The Kirvan car knocked over a stop sign and a guard rail before landing in the ditch. There were no injuries. The mishap occurred at 7:05 a.m. Wednesday.

Myron F. Zimmerman, 48, route 1, Malone, escaped injury when the car he was driving overturned after hitting a utility pole along State 149 a mile west of Kiel about 11:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Zimmerman told police his car began to weave, causing him to lose control. The car was damaged badly.

Seymour School Budget Not Likely to Have Sharp Rise

New District Board to Discuss Costs at First Meeting July 2

BY PAT DUFFEY
SEYMOUR—If the anticipated tax levy for the Seymour Union High School District is any indication, the collective budget for the new Seymour Community School District probably will not contain any sharp increases over expenses of a year ago for the 16 elementary districts.

The Seymour district will be integrated as a common school district—operating kindergarten through 12th grade—on July 1.

When the county school committee's integration order for the Seymour district is finalized at the first annual meeting here July 2, a budget for the new district will not be available for presentation to the electorate.

A rough draft of the composite budget, containing details of assets and liabilities of the high school district and the 16 elementary districts, is expected to be ready for the first meeting of the new school board tentatively scheduled for later that evening.

R. E. Fanning, supervising principal of the Seymour Union High School district, said that several meetings probably will be required of the board before the regular annual meeting July 22 for budget purposes. As yet, only a few of the elementary districts' proposed budgets have reached Fanning's office.

The proposed tax levy for the high school will be the same as a year ago, $320,500. Total expenses, however, are up $30,000 since last year after budget cutting by the administration and school board. Expenses for the high school will total $332,000 for the next term. (Expenses are met through the levy receipts and state aids.)

The high school district will show a balance of about $60,000 according to Fanning, or $35,000 above the anticipated balance of the budget. Biggest saving has been in the short term loan department, where only $40,000 of the allotted $75,000 was used.

State aid in May of $23,800 was $8,000 more than anticipated. Coupled with driver education aid of $2,975 or $300 more than anticipated, this produced extra year-end savings. The actual mid-June balance in the school account exceeded $60,700, with about $110 anticipated in year-end bills.

Fiscal Stalemate
If the state fiscal stalemate continues, a slice of 27 per cent of the school's state aids can be anticipated. However, Fanning cautioned that they comprise only 12 per cent of the school's total budget and their absence would not seriously hamper the total school program.

About $6,000 in foster children aid for the current and the 1961-62 school terms still is anticipated but it is held up by the current state fiscal debate. The high school district contains about 14 foster children for which it is eligible to receive tuition aid from the state. They are living in homes approved by the state and county. This is the first time Seymour has applied for the new aid.

Another hint concerning the future budget gleaned from the high school operation was given by Fanning, who recently told the high school board that a new $1 million unit could be built with only a 35 per cent increase in the taxes. The district is in "unusually good" financial shape, he said.

Nature Hurt by People, Group Told

Wolf River Conservationists Learn of Problem for Future

NEW LONDON — People who hamper conservation were subject of an address by Dr. Jacob Shapiro, Oshkosh State College, at a Wolf River Basin conservationists' meeting Wednesday.

The biggest block in conservation today is people, Dr. Shapiro said. This group can be found in hunting and in other types of sports. It is difficult to find broad-minded people, he added.

Then there is the "don't bother me and I won't bother you" group which uses the attitude of don't look at it and maybe it will go away. This group isn't doing anything for conservation either, he added.

His final category of people was the anti-management group. No one can tell these people that things can be changed," he said, "and they don't want to be bothered with facts."

Swinging from people who hamper conservation advances, Dr. Shapiro moved to the conservationists themselves.

"I understand that conservation is a hard subject to teach be-

Wolf River Planning Group Chairman Says People Must Be Sold on Development

NEW LONDON — Gordon Bubolz, chairman of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning commission, told the New London Chamber of Commerce Wednesday that this city could become a recreational center because of its potential for "excellent" inland facilities.

However, he said, the people of the area must be sold on the idea, and a program must be developed and carried out.

The chamber Wednesday discussed the results of a questionnaire it had sent to city organizations asking for suggestions on developing the area.

The ideas received were divided into six categories: flood control, waterfowl and breeding areas, to provide a boat marina and to improve historic sites.

Herbert Olson, chairman of the chamber's Wolf River committee, presented the list of suggestions to Bubolz and Rod Dittmer, planning director for the regional planning commission.

During discussion of the river itself, a boat speed limit or a limit on motor size was suggested as a way to promote better fishing during the spring walleye run. A better river course and channel could be maintained if wing dams were installed and soil erosion measures were taken, it was said.

Bubolz and his committee were given a tour of the city and both rivers. After seeing how the Embarrass River winds through the city, they agreed that it should be rerouted. Army engineers now are surveying the possibility, he said, and they will make their recommendations as soon as the study is completed.

Along with better facilities and a modern camp site, trailer camp facilities should be developed and maintained, it was suggested.

Other suggestions were to assist or subsidize property owners in stoning the banks of their property along the river to improve silt and clay conditions along the Wolf and Embarrass rivers by helping to prevent erosion; to plant trees along the rivers and roads to improve the watershed, fishing and spawning areas and game habitat; to develop campsites on the Little Wolf River; and to improve and promote White Lake marsh area to preserve waterfowl and wildlife.

Also attending the meeting were Robert Neilson, chamber president, Harry Emans, chamber executive secretary, Waddy Nader and Martin Fuerst, members of the chamber Wolf River committee, and Robert Gurnham, representative of the firm now preparing a master plan for the city.

Keep Cool!

As the wonderful Wisconsin summer comes to full bloom there are bound to be some days of high temperatures and humidity bringing to most of us the symptoms of irritability, loss of appetite, inefficiency and fatigue and to a few the more serious results of fainting, exhaustion or heat stroke. Since there is nothing much we can do about reducing 90 degrees plus temperatures and air conditioning is not universal, it is a good idea to figure out in advance some of the ways of regulating the heat intake and heat dissipation which keeps us cool.

Experiments conducted over a number of years at the Cardiovascular Laboratories of Tulane University's School of Medicine in New Orleans have shown that the heart works as much as 50 per cent harder in extremely hot and humid weather, particularly when the individual has not become gradually acclimated to the heat. It is important then to try to maintain a balance on heat intake and dissipation particularly by those past the first bloom of youth.

Physicians have often recommended avoiding strenuous exercise during the heat of the day. They suggest a reasonably balanced diet with several small meals preferable to a few large ones. The Latin custom of a short siesta immediately after eating is highly recommended.

African Power in the U.N.

Back in 1960 Premier Khrushchev made a speech before the General Assembly during his famous trip to the United Nations, calling for an "immediate end" to the evil of colonialism. With enthusiasm the former colonies, then members of the U.N., passed a resolution in favor of "immediate steps" to bring about independence for areas still in bondage. Of course the resolution didn't mean those enslaved to the modern form of colonialism under Communism.

Since the resolution, the United Nations has indeed helped in taking away areas from the old colonial powers although independence was not the result. When India invaded Goa and wrested that country from Portugal, the U.N. made no protest. And when Indonesia began sporadic attacks upon West New Guinea, the U.N. offered its offices, not really to solve the problem, but to permit the Dutch to get out with some amount of grace. West New Guinea is supposed to have the chance of determining its fate at a plebiscite—if the Indonesians bother to hold one.

Last month Ahmed Ben Bella, Premier of Algeria, called for a walkout by Africans not only from the World Health Organization but the General Assembly itself next September. This is in protest to the continued membership in both groups of Portugal and South Africa with their racist policies. Thirty-two African delegates did in fact walk out of the International Labor Organization when they discovered that South Africa could not be expelled.

All of this is not merely oratorical or hiking exercise. African nations are providing training grounds for "freedom fighters" who are supposed to liberate

How Can They Breathe?

While the crowds in West Germany were enthusiastically and in some cases almost hysterically greeting President Kennedy, action in grim contrast was going on in East Germany. As part of a planned "disturbance," sullen East German guards began erecting wire fences to back up the Berlin Wall.

A strip of land about 300 feet wide running along the entire intracity border has been declared off-limits except for special permission. Additional areas more than 1500 feet wide and a narrow strip already named the "zone of death" are absolutely prohibited.

Looking Backward

Meade New Potomac Commander

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for July 2, 1863.
Gen. Joseph Hooker has been relieved at his own request, and Gen. George Meade succeeds him as commander of the Potomac Army. We fear this means that Halleck refused to let Hooker drive the rebels North, as he kept Sedgwick from him before. Hooker has issued the following farewell address (from his headquarters on June 28, 1863.
"In conformity with orders from the War Department, dated June 27th, I relinquish the command of the Army of the Potomac. It is transferred to Major-Gen. George G. Meade, a brave and accomplished officer who has earned the confidence and esteem of the army on many well fought fields.
"Impressed with the belief that my usefulness as commander of the Army of the Potomac is impaired, I part from it, yet not without the deepest emotion.
"The sorrow of parting with comrades of so many battles is relieved by the conviction that the courage and devotion of this army will never cease nor fail; that it will yield to my suc-

Merely lying still in a hot, muggy atmosphere may not be the best answer. The old idea that running cool water over the wrist would cool the whole body has been borne out in experiments. Subjects who immersed a hand and forearm in cool water reduced their perspiration while in the same hot, muggy room. Those who sat in water cooled chairs with perhaps half the body in the water could withstand much higher temperatures with no discomfort and no sign of stress. A heat loss from any part of the body obviously serves to cool the body as a whole.

People who live in the tropics generally suffer less both in comfort and in physical manifestations from the heat than do those of us in northern climates who are suddenly plunged into a few hot, humid days. The body acclimates itself to heat by a slowing down of the metabolic rate but this takes some time. It is important then not to exercise violently during hot spells when one is not accustomed to the climate.

Last February when we had a record breaking number of below zero days, the aspect of a hot summer sounded wonderful. It can be if we live sensibly and realize that the importance of keeping cool is not merely a matter of the mind.

Angola. Ben Bella pledged that he would make a continental crusade for men and money for the cause. And if that move is successful, the idea of arousing the blacks in South Africa to bloody revolt is no idle dream.

One of the major troubles of course is that Portugal and South Africa are not only tragically wrong in their racial policies but far out of touch with this century. But the cure for the situation, if it comes about through force, should not be approved in the United Nations. It is all too clear that the large number of former colonies, most of them small and many of them virtually supported financially by the larger, wealthier members, especially the United States, are using the U.N. for a purpose which one can understand but which is out of order. The great danger of this decade is not a remnant of old-fashioned colonialism. It is the new variety exercised by both Khrushchev and Mao Tse-lung.

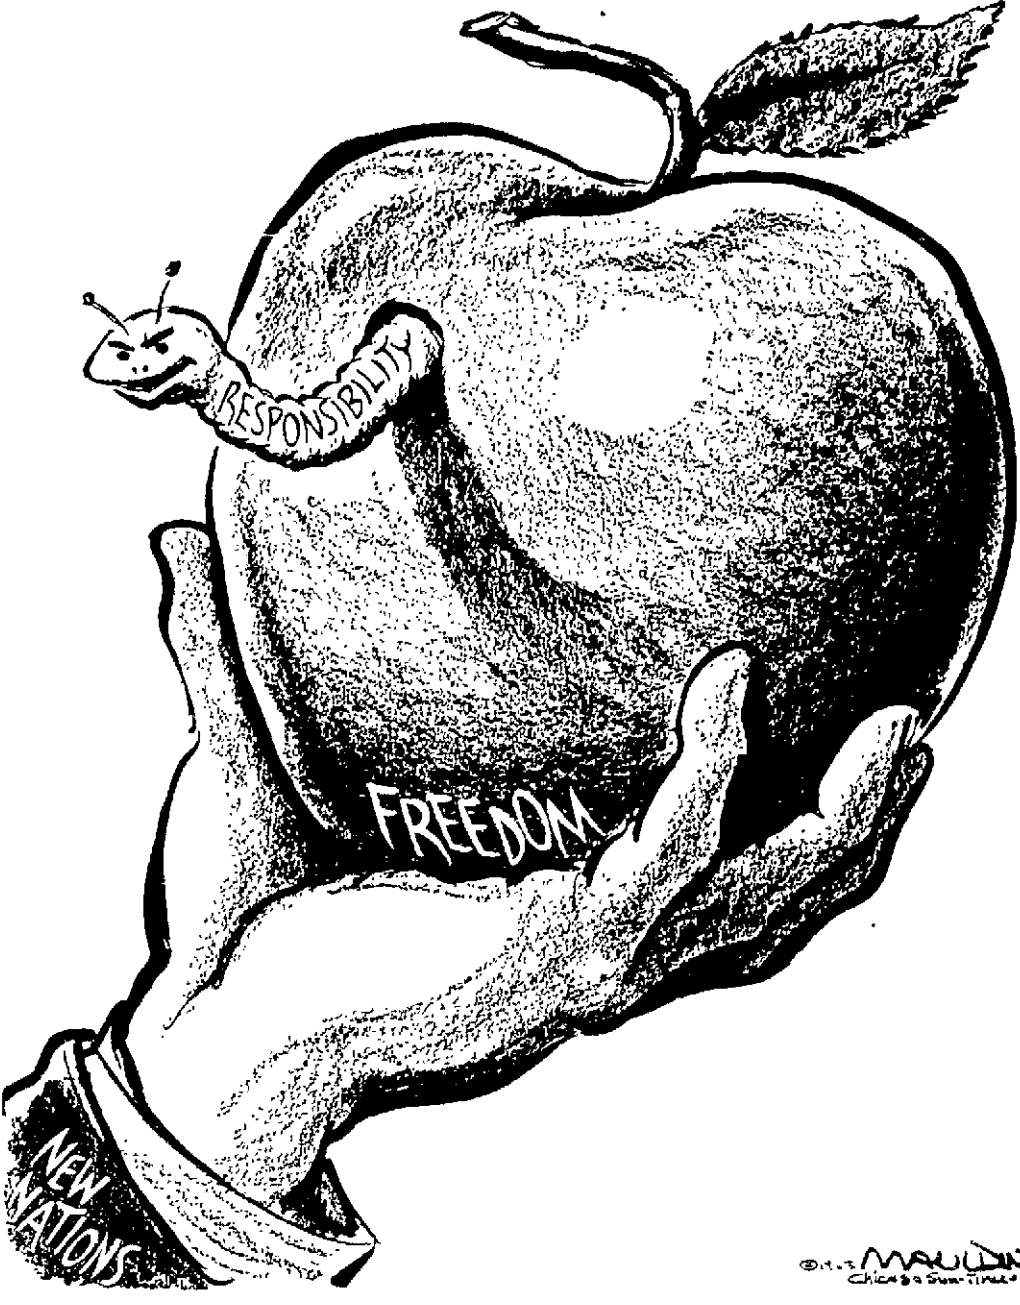

The Africans are trying to have things both ways. On the one hand they quail from trying to force out the Soviet Union or the continued withholding of membership from Red China on the grounds that the U.N. is supposed to be a universal body representing all shades of opinion. On the other hand they are attempting to force into resignation both Portugal and South Africa because they oppose their points of view. They even censured the South African delegate for expressing the opinion of his government.

It is quite likely that an African force may invade Angola or even South Africa. The blood bath would make the Congolese trouble look like a Saturday night hoe-down. Is the United Nations going to back such a move or remain silent?

The allied protest described the effort as just another attempt "to transform the Soviet zone and the Soviet sector of Berlin into a vast concentration camp." As if to emphasize the free world point of view, a young East German border guard picked that time to make up his mind to flee successfully to West Berlin.

The Wall will probably be reinforced again and again. But each barbed wire entanglement, each stone and brick must speak ever more harshly to those in East Germany that they are being walled in slowly, and being suffocated, at least spiritually, in the process.

sor, as it has to me, a hearty and willing support.

Prospect St.-Memorial Drive Intersection Needs Attention

Editor, Post-Crescent:

The obtuse reasoning with respect to the closing of Front Street apparently still persists. The traffic problem exists at the Memorial-Prospect intersection and action taken elsewhere merely tends to draw attention from that which is the most vital concern.

On September 19, 1962 the council by resolution authorized "temporary barricading" of Front Street for a period of six months for the alleged purpose of making a traffic study. There is no statutory provision authorizing such action and it was only by stretching the rules of statutory construction to the breaking point that the city attorney passed on the legality of the action. Once a street has been dedicated any interference with traffic on it becomes a matter of interference with public rights. Although abutting property owners are vitally concerned it is the interest of the general public that is of dominant concern.

The proponents of the closing argue that an access in such close proximity to a major intersection and bridge should not exist and cite statements to that effect by traffic consultants. Further, they indicate that they are interested in channeling traffic onto the primary traffic carriers and avoiding what is considered a hazardous route past Lutz Park. The oft-quoted argument that people are "avoiding" the red light is childish and immaterial, since, if an enforcement problem exists the police department is well equipped to handle the situation.

On March 19, 1963 the authorization for the "temporary barricade" expired and it thereafter existed clearly in violation of the law. At this time we should have received a report of the study made, the number and type of observations taken at the intersection and the conclusions which could be drawn therefrom. This was not forthcoming nor have we been supplied with information as to the number and kind of accidents which have occurred at the Front Street intersection or along the allegedly hazardous route past Lutz Park. These things it would seem, would best determine whether the public interest would best be served by a permanent closing, or by limiting turns.

As it now exists Front Street provides a release channel for those turning left while traveling in a northerly direction on Memorial Drive thereby aiding in the easing of pressure at the Prospect intersection, and similarly in reverse fashion it serves the same purpose for those approaching on Prospect St. Finally, it serves as an attractive drive past some lovely dwellings which, because of its existence may most efficiently be served by the various services which this municipality provides.

It should be hoped by the entire community that we now turn our attention away from Front Street and toward the Prospect-Memorial intersection looking with some regret at the scars in the road and the black top aprons which have replaced grass in the area and wondering if that formidable barrier and all the time and effort involved there and the city funds spent were really necessary to enforce a "temporary measure".

Go Far on Good Advice

BEREA, Ohio (AP) — Motorists will receive some friendly advice upon entering the Ohio Turnpike during the next few weeks: "Make sure you have enough gasoline."

Entrance plaza personnel are being instructed to issue the reminder orally. Executive Director C. W. Hartford says it's an experiment to try and reduce the number of vehicles stranded on the northern Ohio toll road with dry gasoline tanks.

Turnpike officials have posted reminder signs and are continuing to use them, but Hartford says "results are something less than dramatic."

Old Timers Looking for Shuffleboard Recruits

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Thanks for publishing the picture of the Old Timers playing shuffleboard. We called your attention to our game, not because we wanted to get our pictures in the paper, but because we wanted to let others know that there is a shuffle board in Erb Park and we hope many people will use it.
It really is an older person's game but we find that the youngsters enjoy it also.

We play afternoons several times a week and would like to have any old timers who enjoy a little physical recreation out in the open join us. Come out any afternoon and bring the ladies along. It's good exercise and it's fun.

Sales Tax Is Now Dead
As Campaign Issue in State's Future Politics

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The Democratic state convention's acceptance of Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds sales tax compromise proposal was a reluctant and even a sullen one. Yet the fact of its acceptance is one of the crucial facts of contemporary state politics, as will be shown in clearer perspective after the resolution of the tedious fiscal stalemate at the capitol and the politicians start pointing their speeches and their statements at the next election.

The convention action means that to all intents and purposes the tax revision argument has been removed from campaign debate. Much as he and other Democrats would like to do so, Gov. Reynolds cannot by any conceivable stretch of the notoriously liberal rules of campaign publicity, campaign on opposition to the sales tax again.

The embarrassed and clumsy Democratic state convention action puts one in mind about the ancient aphorism about the cat walking on its hind legs. It should not be criticized for an ungainly appearance. The wonder is that it can walk at all.

HARD DECISION

Top-ranking Democrats, from the governor down, were more worried than they had let on about a revolt of the organization delegates at the convention.

It is one thing for the top men of the party to sit in Madison putting out propaganda against the sales tax with tongue in cheek, as the governor did for the last six months and as he did so recently when he vetoed the Republican revenue bill with a defiant "you've got to lick me first" challenge. It is another to be the recipient of such propaganda efforts, in the local party organizations, and then to be abruptly told by the titular leader of the party that he must capitulate in order to save the state from disaster.

Reports from the party convention indicated that it was poorly attended, and that even some of the delegates who registered spent little time at the business sessions. Thus a few hundred persons were making the policy decisions for the organization which claims more than 20,000 dues-paying, working members. Yet it was probably a fortunate thing for the governor and his delicate situation in bargaining with the Republican legislature that the attendance was small. Those who came tended to be the party hierarchs and bureaucrats, somewhat more sophisticated, less literal-minded than would have been turned out with a full hall of eligible delegates.

AND NOW

There were clear signs in the convention oratory and platform committee resolutions that some of the Democrats hope there is some vote-catching power remaining in the sales tax. There was talk about the Republicans exacting "ransom" from Reynolds. There was talk about capitulation only to save the state from utter fiscal chaos.

Yet there is reason to believe that the informed Democrat — as distinguished from those who are content merely to absorb the party's campaign publicity without audit or reflection — knew all through the long months of bluff and counter-bluff in the legislature that the issue had been lost.

Former Gov. Gaylord Nelson confirmed that two years ago when under similar circumstances he offered the first sales tax compromise.

Gov. Reynolds surely had some reservations about his ability to foist upon the state the highest income tax rates in the country, given the division of political power the electorate decided upon last fall. He might, indeed, have had some reservations about his ability to do so even if he had been given a Democratic legislature.

Then when he offered what was a generous spending program, by all Wisconsin experience, the sales tax conclusion was inevitable. It is important to recall, in this connection, that Nelson accompanied his own sales tax concession with a "barebones" budget theme.

Harris Points Out He Has Own Foundation

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I am in receipt of a letter from a ladies' club in Kansas, which runs as follows:

"Dear Mr. Harris: We are a philanthropic group, and would like you to speak at our fall banquet. Unfortunately, we cannot pay a fee, since our funds are allocated for various children's charities. Sincerely . . ."

My reply, as always, was prompt, courteous, and (I hope) definitive:
"Dear Madam: Thank you for the kind invitation to address the fall banquet of your worthy group. I am delighted to learn that your funds are allocated for various children's charities, and I should like to take this opportunity to tell you about the Harris Foundation.

"The full name of this enterprise, which is wholly non-profit, is the Carolyn Michael, Barbara David and Lindsay Harris Foundation for Deserving Children. It operates at a staggering annual deficit.

"Any funds contributed to this project are allocated 100 per cent to the children themselves, with no costs deducted for overhead, promotion, publicity, mailings, balls, banquets or hazaars.
"The funds go directly for the following purposes: college and school tuitions, orthodontist's fees, medical bills, clothing, shoes, chemistry sets, rocking horses, Raggedy Ann dolls, and bicycles.

"In addition, a small hut constant sum is set away monthly for future contingencies, such as measles, birthday parties, falls from trees, small dogs, tropical fish collections, broken windows, lost gloves (192 pair since 1955 alone, as you can see from the attached statement of operating expenses for the last decade, included in the annual report), and allowances, which grew in geometrical proportion while the children grow only in arithmetical proportion.

Our books have been audited and verified by the U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue, District of Northern Illinois — who, however, has persistently refused to let the Foundation be incorporated not-for-profit under state or national laws. I am currently engaged in taking this case to the highest court in the land, and have hired for this purpose an attorney with eleven children of his own.

"As you can see, the Harris Foundation is unique among all the groups to which you have been contributing, in that not one penny is diverted to pay the expenses of the administrator, who happens to be a newspaper columnist of the utmost probity, frugality, and self-sacrificing to the point of saintliness. His name will be sent upon request, if accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"Thanking you again for your inquiry, I remain very truly yours, Sydney J. Harris."

Outlook for Rest of '63 Still Good

But Business and Buyer Confidence Must Stay High

BY SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—You are being promised all kinds of goodies the rest of this year. The list includes rising production and sales, more jobs and higher incomes, further scientific advances, increased profits and dividends, only slightly higher cost of living.

which already is at a record, and even a chance of a new bull market later in stocks.

At midyear most business statistics are fatter and most indicators are favorable.

But mixed in are plenty of uncertainties. The final tally will depend on many things—all the way from the weather to Congress, from labor strife to de Gaulle, from domestic politics to such trouble spots as Khrushchev-controlled Cuba.

Up in the air at the moment are:

Racial Tension
Racial tension, tax cuts, a threatened rail strike or government intervention, a letdown as an aftermath of the big buildup in steel inventories to hedge against the strike that wasn't in the cards.

Taxes likely will be cut on the federal level, although when, how much and for whom is still up to Congress and the political tides.

The effect on business—on profits and job creation, on consumer purchasing power and economic growth—depends on the final form of the tax bill.

Labor problems are far from settled, despite the relief over the new steel pact. Job security is the worker's cry, and cost-cutting is the goal of his boss. Often the two will seem incompatible.

Even though the employment total is expected to rise, more young people will be looking for jobs. And continuing mechanization means that more older persons will find the skills they learned are out of date. The rate of unemployment, now around 6 1/2 per cent of the labor force, will stay high, even if the economy grows as the experts now are promising.

Louder Levels
Now all the talk is about loftier levels ahead. For many weeks the stock market advanced, apparently in anticipation. Its hesitation this month could be just a reforming of ranks before the new bull market some foresee, or it could be a deeper doubt.

The spring increase in housing starts should assure a 1.4 million unit market for appliance makers, furnishing store and utilities — and for increased spending by local governments to provide services.

Large numbers of scholars, from first grade to college, will be outfitted in the back-to-school rush. And the demand for new classrooms and teachers is still sizable.

Most unpredictable of all, and most sensitive to sudden winds of change, is public confidence. Right now it's pretty strong, even if some think it less vigorous than a few months back.

If business and consumer confidence stays high, the rest of the year can be truly one of the best. If something should shake it—watch out.

'Committee of 25'
Will Study Rising
Local, State Costs

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON—Leaders of the Wisconsin legislature have chosen Fred Trowbridge of Green Bay, former president of the Wisconsin

Bar, as chairman of their "Committee of 25" which will examine sky-rocketing state and local government expenditures and make recommendations on how they may be controlled.

Announcement of the selection was made here last night by the Legislative Council, to which the commission has been suggested special study will be attached for next fall.

administrative purposes. The first session of the group will be held here July 25. Republican and Democratic caucus leaders of the legislature will sit with the committee as non-voting members.

Creation of the study commission, consisting of leaders in civic, business and labor affairs in the state, spring from the legislature's concern this year about the problem of expanding the state treasury revenue base to accommodate the hungry demands of state and local public services.

One of the most delicate mandates to the commission is to scrutinize the state's school aid formula, which has been increasing in cost so rapidly as to cause a succession of financing crises in the legislature, the worst of which is now before the legislature without sure prospects of solution.

Trowbridge is 62, a native of Viroqua, and head of one of the principal Green Bay law firms. His political affiliation was not mentioned in his appointment, but he is regarded as a Republican. He was widely supported for a federal judgeship during the Eisenhower administration.

Vice Chairman Named
The Council announced the selection of Daller Burke of Milwaukee, ranking Wisconsin official of the United Steelworkers Union, as vice chairman of the study commission.

The announcement said that while legislative leaders will sit with the commission, "they do not want to influence the voting in any way. They are determined to give full weight to the conclusions and recommendations that the public members will submit during the ensuing months of study."

A preliminary report of the commission has been suggested for next fall.

Miss Wisconsin Bows Out at Oshkosh Dinner

Joan Mary Engh Receives Gifts From 21 Contestants as Pageant Begins

BY JUDY RUSSELL,
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — In the words of Miss Joan Mary Engh, LaCrosse, the Miss Wisconsin banquet held at the Athenaeum Hotel Thursday evening turned out to be "Christmas in June."

The 21 contestants for the 1963 title presented the reigning queen with gifts, either products of the city they represent in the pageant or personal items.

Each contestant introduced herself to the crowd of pageant officials, committee members, judges and guests. She then gave a short speech. When the first one, Miss Sheboygan, Joan Peterson, ended her talk and announced that "Joanie" would be getting a shipment of bratwurst, the alternate Miss America realized what was coming. "There's not many times I'm at a loss for words," Miss Engh laughed, "but this is one of those times."

Miss Appleton, Roberta D'Ambrosio, declared, "I'm proud to represent the city of Appleton, doubly so because I'm from Illinois. I have gone to Lawrence for two years and I just love it." Miss D'Ambrosio's gift was "a book that has given me a lot of inspiration. I hope it does for Joan, too."

next three days it's your city, girls," Miss Bylow's gift to the queen was a wedding candle. "To light your future, Joanie," Miss Engh will be married July 20.

Miss Bayland, Linda Madison, explained that she represented Door, Brown and Kewaunee counties. "My home is Green Bay and I invite you to stop in to Packeland." Food products were presented by Miss Madison.

Miss Engh loves to fish and Miss Ripon, Kathleen Kenas, presented her with a rod and reel. Miss Engh responded with "Look out, Mississippi River, here I come." She also received a table service from Miss Ripon.

Other gifts included a charm, a recipe for baked chicken with sesame seeds, aluminum products, tennis shoes, a sweater, a hand-tooled leather purse, a mixer and a disposal unit.

At the end of the presentations, Miss Engh declared, "You have given me everything a girl could ask for — something to keep as mementos of my reign as Miss Wisconsin. Each and every one of you are queens. I remember how nervous I was last year when I mentioned the industrial and educational facilities of the host city, sure I will be."

Summer Tutoring May Aid Boy in School Work

BY DR. EVE JONES

...ing him pass even though he'll move two months ago and my 10-year-old has had a wonderful teacher who helped him with school work because he was sick the first few months of school. But she hasn't been able to help him enough to let him pass into the next grade. She says it won't hurt him to fail because he's small for his age anyhow.

But his brother, one year younger, has no trouble with school and will be ready for the same class next year. Won't this be bad for my older boy? Don't you think I should insist on the teacher let-

Dear Eve Jones: We had to have a hard time at first. Ask the teacher to help you find a tutor who can work with your older son this summer. By next fall, he should have caught up enough to warrant a provisional promotion that will give him a chance to prove he can handle the next grade.

Dear Eve Jones: My 8-year-old son complains that the other boys bother him at Cub Scout meetings and after school. But when I tell him to defend himself, he says, "Fighting isn't my hobby." Is he a coward or what? He spends most of his time alone playing Civil War with his toy soldiers. He seems to take out his disappointment over not having of dealing fairly. Friends by being fussy about his clothes and what he'll eat and also by bossing my wife and our daughter around. How can I teach him to stand up for his rights?

MR. S.H.

First you'd better teach him to respect the rights and needs of others. He sounds like a tyrant who is so accustomed to pushing his soldiers and family around that he doesn't know anything about making friends. Put an end to special menus and last minute laundering that lets him have whatever he wants. Tell him to stop criticizing and bossing.

When he complains, put the responsibility squarely back on his shoulders. Don't mislead him by encouraging him to think he should be able to fight people into surrender. Ask him what he did or failed to do to make the other boys pick on him. When he stops expecting them to be scared of

Enthusiasm, Projects Publicize 4-H Clubs

Members, Leaders Must Make Effort to Alert Community, Citizens to Benefits

Your 4-H Club can develop community spirit but it won't be accomplished without some effort from every member in the club.

Community spirit is developed cooperatively by the members, parents and leaders in a 4-H club. As people become involved in club work, they can't help but involve others with their enthusiasm.

Nearly every community has several persons with special skills. Most of these people will be happy to teach their skill to 4-H members and eventually many become leaders. Why not ask them to help your club?

Don't forget your friends in the cities and villages. Invite them to a club meeting. One Wisconsin 4-H club increased its membership 200 per cent by aggressively seeking new members in all areas.

The project and activities of your club helps your locality become aware of your organization. The 4-H club provides learning in the home setting with educational benefits to the individual. Are you aged to increase the size of their flocks.

By making the business easier, officials also hope to attract more farmers into the egg production field. They feel that a 2,000-bird flock can significantly augment farm income.

The washing line is but the first step of a highly refined processing operation at the Valders plant where as many as 54,600 eggs may be processed in a single day during peak periods.

Average Day
The aforementioned figure represents 600 cases. About 500 cases of eggs, each containing 30 dozen, is an average day, Koch said.

After leaving the sanitizing shower, the eggs are run through a hot-air dryer. A thorough inspection—the candling process—comes next. The eggs pass over a bank of fluorescent tubes and the powerful light enables a woman in the candling booth to detect internal and external defects. Any eggs which do not come up to the rigid Grade A standards are removed.

Classified by Size
Still on a conveyor belt, the eggs are then put through an automatic size selection process. A series of scales eject eggs from the line according to their weight. There are four size classifications and the producers are paid accordingly. The size selector also tallies up the number of eggs the producer has in each classification with a micro switch operating an electronic counting device.

After they have been sorted according to size, the eggs are

Leptospirosis Time Is Here Farmers Warned About Swampy Pastures, Streams

With the maximum danger season for leptospirosis here, farm-ers were warned today by authorities to keep livestock away from low, swampy pastures and slow-moving streams.

These are the areas where animals are likely to pick up the infection and the big insulated rigs that haul the eggs to the Chicago market area.

No Longer Limited
In addition to the plant at Valders, a similar operation is conducted at Sparta but the cooperative headquarters is at Valders. The group also has a storage plant at Sloughton. Egg production is no longer limited to state poultrymen. The operation has producers in Iowa and Minnesota.

Chicago is the major market outlet with Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha and other major cities in northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin also representing significant markets.

Operations like the one at Valders could spur the state's lagging egg industry.

Haying Operation Well Underway In Wisconsin

MADISON (AP) — Haying operations are well under way in Wisconsin with about 60 per cent in barns in the southern area and about 15 per cent in northern counties. The Weekly Crop and Weather Report noted Wednesday.

Frequent rain and drizzle slowed haying in the north. Dry weather in the south has kept yields below average for the first cutting and fields are showing little or no sign of coming back with a good second growth, the report added.

Pastures are in good shape in northern counties but in the south they are only holding their own because of lack of rain.

"Soil moisture in southern counties is getting near the short situation and the southwest will be in real trouble if normal hot weather comes before good steady rain," the summary concluded.

40 Per Cent Moisture In Forage Proves Okay

Researchers Show Increasing Dryness Has Little Effect on Cows' Intake

There isn't much point in reducing moisture in low moisture silage below the 40 per cent level, a University of Wisconsin dairy researcher told a meeting of the American Dairy Science Association at Purdue University in Lafayette, Ind.

Howard Larsen, reporting on daily feeding trials conducted by Russell Johannes and him, said that cows had the highest dry matter intake from forages when the moisture percentage was between 40 and 60 per cent. Dropping the moisture below that level did not encourage the cows to eat greater amounts of dry matter. Larsen also said losses during harvest were greater when the crop was harvested at lower moisture levels.

Larsen and Johannes have conducted feeding trials at the University's Marshfield experimental farm with cows on four different forage rations. The four were hay and silage with corn-oats concentrate, hay and silage with ensiled corn, low moisture silage with corn-oats concentrate, low moisture silage with corn-oats concentrate, and over an either hay or low moisture silage with a single source of concentrate.

The said their experiment showed that the cows seem to prefer a dry corn-oats concentrate to ensiled ear corn. Some 18 per cent of the corn was refused by the cows. Nine per cent of corn-oats was refused.

The continued that they found no major differences in milk production among the four diets listed. The pea harvesting acreage is estimated at 2 per cent more than last year. The sweet corn harvest will be 13 per cent less than in 1962 while the snap bean acreage is up 14 per cent compared with a year ago.
